The 1846 Mind Appears in 1959

Washington Notes:

In August, 1846, Samuel H. Laughlin, Recorder of the Land Office of the United States, neighbor and good friend of the then President James K. Polk, went on a personal mission for the White House to Norfolk, Va.

He was a patient keeper of a diary, was Land Recorder Laughlin, and on Aug. 31, 1846, he sat down at the end of a day in Norfolk and recorded the following:

"Norfolk, Va., August 31, 1846. . . . I was constrained from much observation and commendation to consider the money spent and wasted on, and in, our Navy—in the hundreds of useless officers and offices—in jobbing, in building and repairing ships—in frauds of a thousand kinds practiced on the Navy Department—in frauds practiced in building forts, navy yards, depots—frauds by agents in the innumerable forms by which millions are disbursed—the likelihood that no use for heavy ships of war or forts can ever be wanted again—I say I consider these expenditures and the miserable manner in which the Navy department is split up into bureaus, each under an ignorant, superannuated or dishonest captain or commodore, make the Navy and the expenses connected with it, the millstone that is sinking our finances and causing the government to get into debt. It takes more money now to support the Navy alone than General Washington or Mr. Jefferson required to administer the government in all its departments, civil and military. The Army is very little better."

Familiar Echo

This has a familiar echo in our time. There always are niggling little men who seek to appear profound by printing the national debt or the price of round steak of 40 years ago and comparing it with that of today.

Today we have men who make themselves ridiculous by speaking of a bigger bang for a buck. We have magnificent army and navy officers who have with great agony of spirit, abandoned their careers because they could not, in integrity, support defense policies which to them seemed inadequate, wasteful or erroneously conceived.

Some of our congressmen have been made happy and bouncy as larks by taking a ride in a nuclear submarine.

Orbiting Missiles

Missiles made in the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. are orbiting the earth and the sun.

But neither here in this great and beautiful city nor in any others can one be sure we are on the right course. Nor, for that matter, can they be any more certain in Moscow.

There is just one thing for sure. We must keep going as we are, building and testing the fantastically contrived and costly new weapons—or stop altogether.

There is no middle ground.

It was much simpler in Sam Laughlin's day and time, when ships were wooden. A few wooden heads couldn't do too much harm.

What makes for fear and uncertainty today is not the enemy. Rather it is the knowledge that if we and the Russians continue to pile up great stockpiles of weapons they eventually will be used.

We will find a way to negotiate and agree or we will have war. This is the grim fact of it. Yet, we still hear people say, "Let's bomb them." There are those who act as if all we had to do was fire a bomb or so and end it. This is stupid business to the point of being almost insane. None is safe from retaliation—either we or they. The fact is, none is safe. This is a conclusion inescapable. It is the only hope for any success whatever at the summit meetings.

There just isn't any middle ground for either the U.S.A. or the U.S.S.R.

Which is why I keep hoping that somehow Vice President's recent proposal of a start toward a rule of law in the World Court may somehow, with the help of a merciful Lord, find soil in which to take root. It may, with the vigorous support of the secretary of state and Sen. Fulbright's Foreign Affairs Committee. The alternative is too bleak to contemplate.

Bills Name Brinson And Jones

Sol. Gen. Paul Webb Friday notified former State Parks Director Roy F. Chalker that the Fulton Grand Jury next Thursday will consider an indictment against him on a payroll padding charge.

A letter sent to Chalker, who later became State Highway Board chairman, declared that a joint indictment naming Chalker and A. B. Woodard would be presented to the jury at 10 a.m. Thursday.

Woodard's name was also listed Friday among seven persons who, the grand jury charged, were added to the State Parks Department payrolls by former governor's aide R. A. (Cheney) Griffin and former Parks Director J. W. Brinson Jr. Woodard was listed in a seven-count indictment returned by the jury.

Besides the indictment against Brinson and Griffin, the jury returned indictments against Brinson and Atlanta tractor dealer H. Candler Jones, charging them with cheating the state on purchases.

The jury also charged two Atlanta businessmen, W. B. Austin and Saul Schacter, with embezzling $60,000 in state sales tax funds.

The two indictments naming Brinson charge the state was cheated of a total of $21,251.12 through conspiracies with Griffin and Jones.

According to the dates listed in the proposed indictment against Chalker, Woodard was carried on the parks payroll from April 1, 1955, to July 15, 1956, and was continued on the payroll by Griff-

Cravey Is Told Point Blank Of His Pending Indictment

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Compt. General Cravey got a face-to-face declaration Friday from Fulton Sol. General Webb that there "is an indictment pending against you" before the Fulton Grand Jury.

Cravey, who had breezed into the courthouse and to Webb's office on a visit "in the interest of some very important records" subpoenaed by the jury, stammered and stuttered when he got the word.

Cravey previously had told reporters that he thought any pending indictment against him was the "backwash" from his recent firing of five or six employes in an economy move, and was prompted by "rumors" during last year's political campaign "that I had some people traveling at state expense campaigning for me."

The comptroller general breezed into the grand jury witness room, greeted some of his employes who were subpoenaed to bring the records before the jury, shook hands, then told a deputy sheriff attending the jury room, "Let me in there and say howdy."

Then Webb, a cigar clenched in his teeth, emerged from the jury

Herter Invites Senators To Sit In at Geneva

By E. W. KENWORTHY
(Copyright, 1959, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Herter has asked the ranking members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to accompany him to Geneva for the foreign ministers conference next month.

Herter broached the idea to Sen. Fulbright, committee chairman, at a meeting Thursday night. Fulbright agreed to consider the proposal. However, he is known to be cool to the idea.

On the other hand, Sen. Wiley (R-Wis), ranking minority member of the committee, is understood to be enthusiastic about going.

The task of the Western foreign ministers next week will be to settle remaining differences on German problems before their conference with the Soviet foreign minister, which opens in Geneva May 11.

Senate Democrats generally are known to have deep reservations about having a Democratic Senate representative with Herter at Geneva. These reservations stem from deep-seated feelings about the constitutional separation of powers.

They feel that Fullbright's attendance would involve the party politically at a working level of diplomacy where the Senate has no business being involved.

Warm Weekend Is Predicted

A warm weekend is forecast for Atlanta and north Georgia, the weatherman says.

Saturday will be fair with extremes of 54 and 80, the Weather Bureau says, and Sunday will be cloudy with extremes of 56 and 80. Friday's extremes in Atlanta were 44 and 74.

Institution Shifted to Health Unit

By GENE BRITTON

State Welfare Director Alan Kemper Friday yielded his one-man control of Milledgeville State Hospital to the State Health Department following a recommendation by Gov. Vandiver's medical investigating committee.

Kemper signed an order transferring the hospital to the Health Department in a session with Gov. Vandiver Friday after the governor had gone over the report of the five-doctor committee of the Medical Association of Georgia.

The committee urged the immediate transfer and the creation in the Health Department of a Division of Mental Institutions to administer the hospital. As a long-range recommendation, it urged the eventual creation of a separate State Department of Mental Health.

It also urged that Dr. T. G. Peacock, superintendent of the hospital, be retired.

Gov. Vandiver praised the doctors for their gratis report and pledged his administration "will move immediately to implement the provisions of this report." Appropriate executive and administrative orders are being prepared to effect the committee's suggestions for immediate action.

The first such order was the transfer order signed by Kemper, apparently at the governor's urging, and endorsed by Vandiver.

Dr. Thomas F. Sellers, director of the State Department of Public Health, said there will be no changes in the operation of the hospital "until we are ready to implement them after a study of

Medical Association Paid All Probe Costs

All expenses for the investigation of Milledgeville State Hospital by the Medical Association of Georgia were paid by the association, according to a letter from Dr. W. Bruce Schaefer to Gov. Vandiver.

The doctors served without compensation and bore their own expenses. The Association has assumed other expenses of the study, legal fees and court reporter's bill.

"The doctors of Georgia, therefore, take pleasure in making this report to you free of cost to the state," the letter said.

Dr. Gibson, 7 Others Quit Staff

Dr. Wallace Gibson, chief surgeon, and seven other Milledgeville State Hospital doctors resigned Friday after Gov. Vandiver released an investigation report highly critical of certain practices at the hospital.

Dr. Reese Bradford, assistant hospital superintendent, said that Dr. T. G. Peacock, hospital superintendent, told him of the resignations. "I presume it is official," Dr. Bradford said.

Dr. Peacock, who was severely criticized in the report, was reported too ill to talk to newsmen.

Dr. Bradford said that he thought all of the resignations were verbal.

ANOTHER LISTED

However, it was known that Dr. Zeb L. Burrell Jr., assistant medical director of the mental institution's hospital unit (Jones building), wrote a letter of resignation to Dr. Peacock.

Dr. Burrell, who also was criticized in the report for his handling of a drug research program, wrote that he was quitting because "the governor and his special committee have seen fit to criticize us without what I feel to be adequate recognition of either effort or accomplishment."

THREATENED TO QUIT

Dr. Gibson, medical director of the Jones building, and Dr. Burrell both made public statements last March that they were pleased that Gov. Vandiver had named five doctors to investigate the hospital. They and several other doctors had protested any "political interference" by the governor.

Gibson, Burrell and several of their associates sent a telegram to Vandiver last month threatening to resign if there was any such interference. But when he Surgery By Nurse Criticized

By JACK NELSON

Numerous charges of irregularities at Milledgeville State Hospital, including the performance of major surgery by a nurse, were confirmed Friday by Gov. Vandiver's medical committee.

In a hard-hitting report, the committee also accused Dr. Wallace Gibson, chief surgeon, of falsifying evidence during the hospital investigation. It recommended that he be "relieved of administrative responsibility" for the Jones Building, medical and surgical unit of the mental instiution.

Partial text of report on Milledgeville State Hospital on Page 5.

The committee found that Mrs. Marion Garland, supervisor of nurses of the operating room, performed surgery when no doctor was in the operating room.

The irregularities were first reported in a series of articles in The Atlanta Constitution, beginning last March 5. The articles prompted Gov. Vandiver to appoint the medical committee to investigate.

The committee report also criticized Welfare Director Alan Kemper, whose department lost jurisdiction of the hospital Friday when Gov. Vandiver began carrying out committee recommendations; Dr. T. G. Peacock, hospital superintendent, whose retirement 1959 will be "historic in the annals of medicine and psychiatry in the State of Georgia," says Dr. Lee Howard, president of the Medical Association of Georgia. Jack Nelson, Constitution staff writer, analyzes the hard-hitting special report—made public this week—on Milledgeville State Hospital and tells what the recommended changes could mean to Georgia's mental program and to the future of the hospital under the new administration of the Health department. A partial text of the report appears on Page 5 of this paper.

Trackdown of Mystery Investor Retraced by Capitol Reporter

The identity of the "mystery investor"—holding one-third of the stock of Atlanta Development Co. as collateral for a $15,000 loan—was made known this week. Bruce Galphin, Constitution Capitol reporter, retraces the long search for the name of the investor, which included several explosive hearings at the state Capitol.

Cook Looks for Violations In $15,000 Loan-Stock Deal

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook Friday was believed to be focusing his investigation of the "mystery investor" case on a possible criminal violation involved in a $15,000 loan and stock-transfer deal.

Cook recessed his probe at 3:30 p.m. after four hectic days of testimony in which he established that the five "mystery men" included four relatives of Comp. Gen. Zack D. Cravey.

In the four days, Cook had served subpoenas on 14 individuals and corporations, ended up with volumes of sworn testimony and "possibly two filing cases full of documentary evidence."

Biggest legal question involved apparently revolved around the nearly one-third interest held in Atlanta Development Co. by the five ex-mystery men.

Atlanta Development Co. has a $530,000 loan from the State Employes Retirement System, of which Cravey is a trustee.

Paul C. Sillin, president of Atlanta Development, told the retirement board three weeks ago that he had put up 465 shares as "collateral" on a $15,000 loan from the mystery men.

That gave the five almost one-third interest in the company's $800,000 office building on West Peachtree.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. at the time challenged Sillin to prove that the deal was a real loan and not "a setup to pay somebody a $15,000 fee."

And that was believed to be just what the attorney general was attempting to discover Friday.

He had subpoenaed the financial records of Atlanta Development as well as information from the Bank of Upson and Guaranty Title Insurance Co. relating to the finances of Cravey, his family, the "mystery men" and their families."

From these records, he may be able to determine whether At-

Mental Care Action Hailed as a Start

By CHARLES MOORE

The transfer of Milledgeville State Hospital to the Department of Health and the report of the special doctors' committee are only the beginning of years of hard work before substantial results can be obtained in treating the state's mentally ill.

That was the prediction of Dr. William Rottersman, Atlanta psychiatrist who was a key figure in the famous Kansas state mental illness reform and who advised the Schaefer committee on long range recommendations for Milledgeville.

"This is only the beginning, however, a very promising beginning," Dr. Rottersman said Friday. "The danger is that we'll relax and feel that everything now has been taken care of."

Other leaders in the mental health field in Georgia were also enthusiastic about the Schaefer committee's report and the promise that it holds for treating the mentally ill.

"What has been done so far is evident that this will be a big year in mental health and I think this is only the beginning," said Dr. Joe Combs, president of the Georgia Psychiatric Assn. and a Milledgeville State Hospital clinical director who spoke out

U.S. Death Ray Kills 10 Monkeys in Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government scientists reported Friday that at least 10 monkeys have been killed in recent experiments by a crude "death ray" derived from certain ultrahigh frequency radio waves.

But Dr. Pearce Bailey, who made the report, indicated a belief that it would be unlikely that such a thing could happen to a person listening to a radio or working a radar set.

However, he also said while "we feel certain that radio and radar are not dangerous, we have had mysterious airplane accidents on the other hand."

CITES POSSIBILITY

"It was always assumed that with the ordinary frequencies these things could not happen," he said, "but it appears here that if you use a certain frequency and have the head in a certain critical position, it can happen."

Bailey reported what he termed a remarkable phenomenon in testimony before the House Appropriations Committee released Friday. Bailey is director of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness.

Describing one experiment, the doctor said the waves that killed a monkey emanated from a radio antenna pointing toward the monkey's head and in line with his brain stem, the central and vital part of the brain.

IDENTIFIES FREQUENCY

The particular radio frequency employed, Bailey said later, was 388 megacycles.

Radio experts told a reporter this is within the band of frequencies used in ultrahigh frequency line-of-sight radio communication between airplanes, and is used in some types of specialized television and radar.

In contrast, commercial radio broadcasts are in the frequency band ranging from six-tenths of a megacycle to 1½ megacycles.

Frequency modulation FM radio and everyday television are in the frequency band of approximately 100 megacycles. Most radars are in the range of several thousand megacycles.

Germans Look Into Mystery of Island Bombing

BREMERHAVEN, Germany (AP). An uninhabited German North Sea island was bombed by high-flying planes Tuesday and the West German Defense Ministry said Friday night it still is trying to find out who did it.

The bombing of Knechtsand was reported by a West German navy unit and residents of the coastal area. They said 45 bombs were dropped in 19 sorties spread over most of the day.

U.S. Steel Blames Inflation on Labor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Roger M. Blough, board chairman of U.S. Steel, said Friday his industry's price increases stemmed from an inflation fed by union wage boosts and a 400 per cent rise in government spending.

At a lively session of the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee, Blough defended the steel industry's price hikes and profit margins. He said the industry didn't want to raise prices in the foreseeable future unless "events" forced it to.

The industry opens wage talks with the United Steelworkers Union May 5.

Blough testified against a bill, sponsored by Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), which would require certain big corporations to give 30 days notice of any price increase. Public hearings would be held on the proposed boosts.

When Blough declared that a price control philosophy lay behind the legislation, O'Mahoney lectured for 10 minutes on government and inflation. The senator also accused the steel executive of larding his testimony with "misconceptions" and "misstatements."

Under questioning by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), subcommittee chairman, Blough charged that a subcommittee chart on U.S. profits contained "distortions." He denied that steel profits had risen more than costs, as the chart indicated.

Blough also rejected any idea that American industry has the monopoly power to "administer" prices and cause inflation. He suggested that the subcommittee look into the "administered prices" of labor as fixed by unions and the "administered price" of government as set by Congress and local authorities.

Since 1940, he said, the price of manufactured products has risen 112 per cent, while the "administered price" of hourly labor has gone up 222 per cent, and the "administered price" of government has increased more than 400 per cent, even on a per capita basis.

Kefauver told Blough that steel prices had risen 38 per cent in the 1953-58 period, and asked whether the upward swing could continue.

Blough offered steel industry statistics listing profits of 5 to 8 per cent of sales.

Strontium Called No Milk Hazard

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney has assured Congress that the amount of radioactive strontium - 90 in milk holds no immediate danger to the health of consumers, it was disclosed Friday.

He gave the assurance after Rep. Melvin R. Laird (R-Wis.) said the milk business was being hurt by "scare headlines and stories" based on the Public Health Service's monthly reports on radioactivity.

Laird suggested the Health Service stop issuing the monthly reports. Burney said, however, that this would lay the service open to criticism for withholding information from the public.

Laird questioned Burney about reports on strontium-90 from H-bomb tests during hearings last month by a House Appropriations subcommittee.

Ballerina's Mate Safe In Panama

Arias Finds Asylum In Brazil Embassy

PANAMA (AP)—Roberto Arias, fugitive from Panamanian authorities and husband of British ballerina Margot Fonteyn, turned up safe Friday in the Brazilian Embassy. He had been sought for a week on charges of revolutionary activity.

Dame Margot herself was arrested earlier this week but was released after questioning and now is home in London.

The aristocratic Roberto, scion of a wealthy political family now at odds with the government, claimed asylum under an old Latin-American custom that puts him beyond the reach of Panama's authorities.

LOCATION CONFIRMED

The Panamanian Foreign Office confirmed that Arias and two other men are in the Brazilian Embassy.

A reliable source said Alfredo Ramirez, a member of the National Assembly, took the three to the embassy. It was not known how they managed to slip through national guard lines to reach their refuge.

The two men with Arias were identified as Polidoro Pinzon and Ruben Urieta Donoso. Pinzon was said to be a member of a rebel band operating in the mountains of Veraguas province early this month.

BACKGROUND UNKNOWN

There was no information immediately available on Urieta's background.

Arias, the son of a former president, has been accused by the government of plotting an attack on a national guard garrison. Authorities claimed he landed on Panama's Pacific Coast Sunday night with a band of armed men. The search for him had been concentrated in an area about 75 miles west of the capital but there had been no actual word on his whereabouts until he turned up in the embassy.

Miss Fonteyn, who was with her husband most of last week on their yacht in the Gulf of Panama, sailed into Balboa in the canal zone Monday morning and was arrested Monday night.

Nehru Invites Reds To Visit Free Lama

MUSSOORIE, India (UPI)—Prime Minister Nehru challenged the Communist Chinese Friday to come and see for themselves that the Dalai Lama is a free man in India.

Nehru said the Red-sponsored Panchen Lama or any other high Chinese Communist emissary could come to Mussoorie and talk to the 25-year-old god-king exile. The Panchen Lama is Peiping's new puppet ruler of Tibet.

Nehru denied as "patently not so" Communist Chinese charges that India had helped the Tibetan rebels and was holding the Dalai Lama captive.

The Indian leader issued his invitation to the Chinese in a statement to newsmen just before he began a four-hour private conference with the Dalai Lama.

Nehru said India would not "juzzle" the Dalai Lama while he was here but he urged newsmen to "keep in view the difficulties of the situation."

Nehru and the Dalai Lama greeted each other warmly and posed for photographers at the Dalai Lama's home-in-exile at this north Indian hill station.

Then they went inside to talk privately.

Even while the conference was going on, Peiping radio continued to broadcast broadsides at the Indian government. It said major mainland papers were carrying banner headlines condemning "Indian expansionists" for aiding Tibetan rebels.

Nehru told newsmen such charges were "patently not so."

He scored the Panchen Lama for saying the Dalai Lama was being held against his will but he delicately avoided naming Premier Chou En-lai or other Communists directly.

Guardsmen Ordered Into Coal Fields

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Gov. A. B. Chandler ordered 2,000 National Guardsmen to strikebound eastern Kentucky coal fields Friday in the wake of what he called new mob-like demonstrations and the threat of bloodshed.

Advance units from four battalions moved out immediately for Perry and Letcher counties—focal points for most of the violence in the seven-week-old strike over a new union contract.

The strike, in seven counties, has idled 7,000 men, left two non-union men dead and caused numerous dynamitings.

Czechs Ask Full Voice At Summit

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Czechoslovakia served notice Friday that it wants to be a full fledged participant in the forthcoming foreign ministers and summit conferences.

Notes handed the U.S., British and French diplomatic representatives here by Czech Dep. Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek said the Soviet Union had suggested that Czechoslovakia and Poland sit in.

Both Poland and Czechoslovakia are neighbors of Germany and thus have a legitimate interest in seeing German problems solved, the note added.

Big 4 United Front Forged for Summit

LONDON (UPI)—A Western Big Four working group Friday completed the blueprint for a united front in dealing with the Soviet Union in the Geneva East-West talks next month.

Informed sources said the policy package included a phased arms control and inspection system for Central Europe, lined with progress toward German reunification.

The experts from the United States, Britain, France and West Germany began their strategy-planning consultations on April 13. The British Foreign Office announced the group had "finished its work" Friday.

The plan was dispatched to Washington, Bonn and Paris for governmental study.

It was understood that some differences remained and will have to be worked out by the American, British, German and French foreign ministers in their pre-Geneva meeting in Paris next week.

The policy package also will be sent to the Permanent Council of the North Atlantic Treaty in Paris.

There was official silence on the strategy for the East-West foreign ministers conference which is scheduled to open in Geneva May 11.

However, it was understood the working group agreed on a firm stand on Berlin and a two-phased arms control and inspection system for Central Europe. The latter would be linked to progress on the unification of West and East Germany.

Sources said British Prime Minister Macmillan's original plan for arms limitation on both sides of the Iron Curtain had been whittled down considerably.

They also said a United States plan for a German peace treaty linked with stage-by-stage unification of East and West Germany was cold-shouldered by the other Western parties.

Housewife Descends Pipe To Rescue Boy, 2, in Well

PRESCOTT, Kan. (AP)—A housewife climbed down the pump pipe of a well Friday to rescue a 2½-year-old boy who had fallen into the water.

The boy, Dennis Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wood, Prescott, was revived by artificial respiration and taken to a Pleasanton, Kan. hospital for observation.

The boy and his mother were visiting Mrs. Crandall Holmes, a neighbor, when the lad disappeared. They checked the well and found Dennis in the water.

Mrs. Holmes, 27, using the pump pipe and rocks of the well wall climbed down about nine feet until she could grasp the boy by his clothing.

Mrs. Holmes didn't regard her feat as unusual. She said she did not know the diameter of the well, but it was a tight squeeze between the pipe in the center and the rock-lined wall.

Compromise Curb on Pickets Voted Into Senate's Labor Bill

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON — The Senate wrote a "compromise" picketing curb into the Labor Reform Bill Friday.

It bans picketing to force an employer to recognize or bargain with a union for nine months after the union has been rejected by the employes in an election or where the employer has lawfully recognized another union.

The vote was 86 to 4.

Senate liberals, including six Republicans, were reported, meanwhile, to have agreed on a draft they will attempt to substitute for the so-called McClellan "bill of rights" that the Senate adopted by a one-vote margin Wednesday night.

Sen. Kennedy, sponsor and floor manager of the reform bill, voted for the picketing amendment after winning two crucial floor battles on picketing and secondary boycotts.

On both these issues the Massachusetts Democrat slugged it out oratorically with Sen. McClellan, (D-Ark), who wanted to write harder controls into the bill.

It was the third such victory in two days for Kennedy over the chairman of the select committee on improper activities in the labor or management field. McClellan's so-called "no man's land" amendment was defeated Thursday night.

The Senate agreed Friday, however, to a new, slightly different solution to the "no man's land" problem, which is the area of labor-management cases that the National Labor Relations Board and the states are forbidden to enter.

The new "no man's land" section provides simply that nothing shall prevent a state agency, other than a court, from exercising jurisdiction over all cases that the NLRB has jurisdiction over but over which by rule or otherwise the NLRB has declined to assert jurisdiction. The states would have to apply Taft-Hartley law and NLRB doctrine in dealing with these cases.

Senate liberals and others were trying to write privately a substitute for the so-called "bill of rights," which would attempt to guarantee "equal rights" and certain specified freedoms for union members against interference by officers of their unions. Some southern senators were concerned about the amendment's civil injunction provision, against which they fought so hard two years ago in the civil rights battle. They were also deeply concerned about what appeared to be a provision breaking down the color line, which some unions apply in the South.

let the destroyers of constitutional government, the Communists and other outside interests close our schools, harm our children and disrupt racial harmony and the educational and economic progress of our people and our Southland.
PLEASE, DEAR GEORGIANS
do not work or support any group that is trying to integrate our public schools. Everybody knows that if our schools are ordered integrated—our schools will be closed. The only guarantee of keeping our schools open is to keep them segregated, so it looks like to me all Georgians interested in keeping our schools open should be fighting to keep them segregated.

Prober Kennedy Here, Calls for Labor Cleanup

Gangsterism in labor unions must be stopped by new legislation, Robert Kennedy, counsel for the Senate Rackets Committee, told the Congress of Georgia Business at a meeting in the Atlanta Biltmore Hotel Friday.

"The Hoffas and Becks have been uncovered," he said, "but defects in the laws that allowed them to gain power will continue to plague this country unless something is done."

The youthful attorney, brother of Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass), said gangsters are attracted to labor unions because of the great economic control the unions have over most Northern cities.

"Unions like the Teamsters," he said, "could tie up the whole country in a few hours if they chose to do so."

BLAMES BAR GROUPS

Kennedy also placed some of the blame on bar associations for not taking action against questionable attorneys who serve the union bosses.

"We have heard 1,500 witnesses in our 500 sessions," he said, "and lawyers, who were themselves mixed up in the rackets, are all still practicing attorneys."

Other speakers at the daylong annual Congress of Georgia Business discussed the attraction of new industry, the roles of local Chambers of Commerce and the State Commerce department, and aspects of the Civil War Centennial.

Dr. Ernst Swanson, senior research economist for Georgia Tech's Industrial Development Branch, said the key to the economic health of the state's communities is "the sum of resources, research and promotion."

Georgia Power Co. President John J. McDonough declared that local Chambers of Commerce, once regarded as the "wishbone" of the community, now have become the "backbone" of the areas they represent.

State Chamber members elected four new officers and seven new directors.

The new president is John W. Dent, Cartersville, president of Georgia Marble Co., who succeeds Edgar J. Forio, vice president, Coca-Cola Co., Atlanta. The former president will continue to serve on the board of directors, of which George M. Bazemore, president of the First National Bank of Waycross, was reelected chairman.

NEW VICE PRESIDENTS

New vice presidents are Ben S. Gilmer, president of Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co., Atlanta; W. Cam Mitchell, vice president, Southern States Equipment Corp., Hampton, and Charles R. Simons, president, Chattahoochee Furniture Co., Flowery Branch.

New directors are James A. Beavers, general manager, Beavers Packing Co., Newnan; Al W. Holloway, president, Engineering & Equipment Co., Albany; Gordon Jones, president, Fulton National Bank, Atlanta; W. Quealy Walker, president, Dixie Paint & Varnish Co., Brunswick; J. William Weltch, president, First Federal Savings & Loan Assn., Augusta; Charles Smithgall, publisher, Gainesville Daily Times, and T. M. Hines, president, Oconee Clay Products Co., Milledgeville.

Six officers were reelected, while the terms of 16 directors did not expire.

Gross Sees A 'Golden' Space Age

By JIM MONTGOMERY

The "golden scientific harvest" which lies within America's grasp can be reaped only if business is unfettered, Robert E. Gross, chairman of Lockheed Aircraft Corp., said in Atlanta Friday night.

He said America needs a "government more responsive to . . . the needs of business."

Gross said that he has spent the past week dealing with various governmental agencies in Washington on the relationship of business and the nation's scientific future.

FORECASTS ADVANCES

In an address to the annual banquet meeting of the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce he said the next 10 years will likely bring:

1. High-thrust rockets . . . that will permit us to dump a 14-ton payload on the moon or put 12 tons on Mars.

2. "Unmanned automatic laboratories on the moon and manned flights around the moon.

3. "Orbiting space stations, assembled in space and supplied by "astrotugs"—little space trucks shuttling back and forth to earth."

Of much greater import, he declared, "is what we will bring back from space—new knowledge that will make our lives on earth richer and fuller — by-products that will bring tremedous gains to earthly living.

SOURCES OF POWER

Among these, he suggested new sources of unlimited power, and equating power to wealth forecast an end to the vast economic differences between rich and poor nations.

Likening business and science to "two great power plants that can blast us through into this golden age," he said the engine of science is encouraged while the power plant of business is restrained.

Referring to "growing attacks on big business just because it is big," Gross said it will need to get bigger and asserted:

"The greatest single problem facing business management today is to see to it that government provides a favorable climate for business, or at the very least . . . that government attitudes towards business don't get any less favorable.

He further emphasized that the American free enterprise system must be put in the best position to win the worldwide economic war being waged by Russia.

3 Injured Here As Car and Bus Collide Head-on

Three persons were injured Friday in the head-on collision of an automobile and an Atlanta Transit Co. bus on Pryor street at Tudor street, SW.

Fred A. Marshall, Negro, of 1154 Coleman St., SW, driver of the automobile, suffered head and chest injuries, Patrolman J. C. Ward said. Ruby Weaver, 36, Negro, of 1005 Ira St., SW, a passenger in the car, was treated at Grady Hospital for lacerations and bruises.

A passenger on the bus, Lillian Copeland, 34, Negro, of 591 Formwalt St., SW, suffered cuts and bruises.

Ward said he was told the automobile swerved over the center line of the street and the crash resulted. He said Marshall was charged with driving on the wrong side of the street and accident.

GEORGIA NEWS

Reservoir Dragged for Augustan

Clark Hill Reservoir rangers and civilians Friday searched for Dr. John J. McKinney, 40, Augusta dentist, believed drowned in the reservoir near Lincolnton.

Evidence that Dr. McKinney may be the lake's 26th victim included a gas can, minnow bucket, boat paddle and some pecans which were strewn over 200 yards of shoreline where dragging operations were under way.

The articles, identified by the dentist's son, Johnny, and friends as having been in the missing man's boat, were found Friday. Dr. McKinney disappeared late Thursday.

Husband Slays Wife

An escaped Augusta mental patient knifed his wife and hit a child and woman with an automobile late Friday at Orlando, Fla., the sheriff's department there said. The man, identified as Bernard Goodson, 38, was taken into custody after neighbors reported he wounded Mrs. Mary Goodson, 42, with a kitchen knife and ran his car into Kenneth Howard, 4, and Mrs. Francis Peeler, 27.

Textile Men Elect

Georgia textile men Friday chose a new name and a new president for their state organization. They adopted the name of Georgia Textile Manufacturers Assn. instead of Cotton Manufacturers Association of Georgia. Louis L. Jones of Canton was elected president, succeeding W. C. Vereen of Moultrie.

12 Pupils Faint

More than a dozen fifth grade pupils collapsed in the auditorium of Clubview School at Columbus Friday, the victims of a mass fainting brought on by hysteria.

Grady Senior Is Georgia's STAR Pupil

A 17-year-old Grady High School senior Friday was named the STAR student of Georgia at the annual Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) program of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce.

The STAR student is David W. Brown, 321 Robin Hood Rd., NE, and the STAR teacher of the year is Rufus B. Goodwin, David's mathematics teacher at Grady.

Placing second in the STAR student category was Charles Edmondson Jr. of Gainesville (his teacher was Miss Marie Williams), and Frank D. Smith Jr. of Cartersville (his teacher was Miss Louise Milam).

Some 165 school system STAR students and their teachers were guests at the chamber's annual luncheon. The district STAR students, their teachers and five runner-up students and their teachers will be guests of the chamber on a five-day tour of the state.

Selection of STAR students was based on the scores they made on the annual College Board Scholastic Aptitude tests.

David is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. Brown. Godwin is past president of the Georgia Mathematics Council and he is a member of the Georgia Academy of Science and the Georgia Botanical Society.

Georgian Stabs Wife, Injures 2 With Auto

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—An escaped Augusta, Ga., mental patient knifed his wife and injured two other persons with an automobile late Friday, the sheriff's department said.

The man, identified as Bernard Goodson, 38, was taken into custody by deputies after neighbors reported he wounded Mrs. Mary Goodson, 42, injured Kenneth Howard, 4, and Mrs. Francis Peeler, 27, and ran his car full-tilt three times against the Goodson's small home on the Checkasaw Trail.

Mrs. Goodson was hospitalized in serious condition for wounds inflicted with a kitchen knife.

The Howard boy suffered a leg fracture and an internal injuries, and Mrs. Peeler was cut and bruised when they were hit by the car in the Goodson yard.

WIN SILVER ANTELOPES—The "Silver Antelope," which is given "for distinguished service to boyhood" and is the highest regional award of the Boy Scouts of America, was presented Friday night to (L-R) W. Cameron Mitchell of Hampton, Dr. J. E. Copenhaver of Hartsville, S.C., and J. P. Hunter of Atlanta. About 1,000 persons from North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Georgia attended the annual Region Six awards banquet at the Dinkler Plaza.

Mariettan Indicted in Hit-Run Case

A Marietta man, whose wife turned him in to police because she thought he might be involved in a hit-and-run case here, was indicted Friday by the Fulton Grand Jury on two charges in connection with the case.

William O. Carver, 36, of 120 Spinks Dr., Marietta, was indicted on charges of involuntary manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident, in connection with the March 7 death of Emmett Zachary Lee Olvey, 43, of a Blair Village address.

The manslaughter indictment charges Carver with driving under the influence of intoxicants, traveling more than 35 miles per hour, failing to reduce speed on a curve, and driving on a sidewalk when he hit Olvey on Marietta road, Northwest.

The other indictment contends that after hitting Olvey, Carver "did fail to stop and render assistance" to Olvey, "it being apparent such treatment was necessary . . . but did immediately leave and escape from the scene."

Mrs. Stribling Is Appointed DAR Chaplain

Mrs. T. Earle Stribling, of 3443 Roxboro Rd., NE, was named chaplain general of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington, D.C. Friday.

Mrs. Stribling is a member of the Tomochichi Chapter of the DAR in Clarksville and has held top offices since 1929. She is a direct descendant of Elder William Brewster.

Mrs. Ashmead White, of Lubec, Me., was installed as president general. Other new officers are: Mrs. Harold E. Erb, Garden City, N.Y., first vice president; Mrs. Erwin Frees Seimes, Rehoboth Beach, Del., recording secretary general, and Miss Marian Ivan Burns, Lakewood, Ohio, treasurer general.

Mayor Won't Go To Race Forum

Mayor Hartsfield said Friday he will not attend a symposium on school desegregation May 8-9 at the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind.

The mayor said he received an invitation from Notre Dame's law school to participate in a symposium on "The Problems and Responsibilities of School Desegregation." The mayor said he turned it down immediately.

Hartsfield's comments were directed toward a report transmitted Thursday by the Associated Press from South Bend and published in The Constitution Friday.

That report quoted Notre Dame officialsl as saying Hartsfield and Dr. Rufus Clement, Atlanta University president, would attend the symposium along with other Southern government officials and educators.

Hospital Transfer Heralds New Day

Acting swiftly following delivery of recommendations of a special committee of physicians of the Medical Association of Georgia, Gov. Vandiver by executive action yesterday transferred the Milledgeville State Hospital from the welfare department to the State Health Department.

The transfer, to go into effect immediately, was and has been basic to any long-range plans to improve the institution. It was evident a long time ago that as long as it remained under welfare department supervision the institution would be dominated by politics. It also was obvious that under such circumstances it would continue to be primarily a custodial hospital.

The governor has acted courageously, but with great wisdom, in authorizing the change. There are bound to be some repercussions, politically and at the institution itself. Unfortunately, like many other actions the present governor has had to initiate, the cure for years of inaction will be quite painful.

Let no one think that reorganization of the hospital and reorientation of our entire program of treatment of the mentally ill can be accomplished overnight. It will take time and money. But things which can be done immediately, as outlined in the report, the governor says will be done immediately.

The governor describes the study as one of the "finest, most authoritative and all-inclusive public documents I have ever read." He is quite correct. It is a hard-hitting, straight-to-the-point report. It minces no words and lists names of those charged with responsibilities for irregularities. It corroborates disclosures first made in The Atlanta Constitution by reporter Jack Nelson.

The medical profession has every reason to be proud of this committee of doctors. The Medical Association of Georgia has performed a very real service to the state and to its mentally ill. Faced with this touchy issue, they came forward to meet it in masterful style.

Gov. Vandiver says the recommendations for medium and long-range action, some requiring legislative sanction, will be carried out. The physicians have outlined a blueprint which could put the state near the top in mental health activities.

Underlying causes of present conditions, the report points out, are the lack of professional responsibility at the state level, lack of emphasis on modern psychiatric treatment, lack of public information and understanding. Without establishing professional responsibility there could be little improvement in treatment.

The governor's first act then is to establish that professional responsibility with transfer of the hospital to the health department. This newspaper, which has urged such a transfer for years, is grateful to the physicians and to the governor for establishing the facts of need and for prompt action.

Meanwhile, 1959 indeed appears to be "historic in the annals of medicine and psychiatry in the state." After 116 years of neglect, 1959 could mark the turning point from a shameful past.

All Georgia Is Proud Of These STAR Pupils

The Athlete of the Year and his coach must move over to make way for excellence in scholarship and instruction.

The Georgia State Chamber of Commerce brought a scholarship project to a climax Friday by bringing 165 STAR students to Atlanta, by choosing from among the 165 the student deemed All-State scholastically and by designating one of the STAR student's instructors as the State's STAR teacher.

The State Chamber's Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition program will wind up with a week-long tour for the winners from each congressional district.

We commend the State Chamber for this fine project and we congratulate the winners.

We note that Grady High's David Brown, the state STAR student, has a record which displays an admirable balance between scholarship and extracurricular activities, including athletics and religion.

STAR teacher Rufus B. Godwin, also of Grady, has devoted his attention to teaching both inside and outside the classroom and to helping develop teaching as a prestige profession.

The State Chamber's recognition of scholastic and teaching achievement is an outstanding example of a trend. More and more, the schools and the civic organizations are giving notice to good students. Today at Georgia Tech, for example, the School of Mathematics is sponsoring a state math contest, with medals and cash prizes to the winners. More than 600 students are expected to compete.

Dr. William Pressly, Westminster Schools president, said recently parents and patrons can help the cause of education by impressing upon young people that it is smart to be smart.

The State Chamber project, the Tech math contest and similar events are doing just that.

Talmadge Is Honest In Unit System Stand

Two conclusions seem justified on reading Sen. Talmadge's statement reaffirming his belief that if Georgia does not reform the county unit system it will be wiped out in its entirety.

They are these:

1. Sen. Talmadge sincerely is interested in Georgia and its future.

2. Among those who are loudest in attacking the senator for his stand and are demanding that things be left as they are are those who were associated with the previous corrupt administration. They are interested in themselves only and in the prospect of returning to power through whatever means available.

It is necessary to make it clear that Sen. Talmadge would prefer the unit system be left as it is. His position is, as he says, well known. But he is seeking to do an honest job for the people he represents. He is, therefore, dealing in facts.

Our own position is that the county unit system, which disfranchises many voters in every large county in Georgia, which makes the votes of residents of those counties worth a mere fraction of those of others, is wrong and ought to be abolished.

Sen. Talmadge supports it and seeks to save what he can of it.

We honor him for integrity and honesty in trying to salvage what he can of the system. The hypocrisy of his critics is quite in character and we are certain the people will not be deceived.

Consumer Is Grateful For Any Small Favors

The housewife and the wage earner for the family are grateful for small favors in these days of inflation.

The U.S. Department of Labor has announced that average consumer prices held steady in March and that food prices declined a bit. The paradox is that while food costs are down the prices of other goods and services are up.

Here we have, too, an illustration of the farm problem. The farmer is unhappy. His food products are bringing him less. He pays more for goods and services. Herein is the essence of the agricultural dilemma with its huge, expensive surpluses and the many costly legislative devices aimed at giving the farmer an even break.

But the fact that food prices are down will delight those with budgets—especially when the budgets include the feeding of families.

Sweetest-Smelling City Is Having Gala Weekend

This is a happy, tumultuous weekend for Thomasville and her visitors there for the annual Rose Show festivities. Yesterday many thousands came from far and near to enjoy what has become one of the most spectacular springtime sights in the land in south Georgia.

As Atlanta is the City of Dogwoods, so Thomasville is the City of Roses. Thomasville is a queenly town, her quiet streets shaded by some of the oldest oak trees in North America.

Yesterday was official Rose Show Day and pretty girls on pretty floats in perfect weather made the splendid pageant one of the best ever. The merry-making will continue today.

So let's salute the rose-growing, friendly folks of Thomasville who have made the name of a city synonymous with "rose." For this weekend Thomasville is the sweetest-smelling city on earth.

Rain, Hail and Snow But Not Biting Dogs!

In eight residential blocks of West Memphis, Ark., the postman has stopped ringing until the dogs stop biting.

Four letter carriers serving in as many sections of the city have ceased their rounds in the dog-infested areas. They can do that legally under a postal regulation which says they don't have to deliver mail where dogs are a threat.

Our sympathy is with the bitten. We have an idea that of non-dog owning neighbors in West Memphis is, too.

"Serves them right, the residents in those areas," did we hear you say?

Exactly. And that is just the point.

The postmen can't serve them right as long as the householders don't cooperate.

'Iniquitous County Unit Machine Politics Is Bleeding Taxpayers of Georgia White'

Atlanta — I am getting tired of candidates for governor promising no new taxes and yet they have hardly warmed the governor's chair before they are "hollering" for new taxes. Does not every taxpayer know this is due to the iniquitous county unit system?

It takes hundreds of thousands of dollars to get the Democratic nomination for governor and so the big money is contributed by businessmen in return for doing business with the state by negotiated contracts and selling their wares at double prices.

Add to this the promises that must be made to county commissioners and bosses and you should understand what the county unit system does to the taxpayer.

Right now it is these people who are "hollering" for new taxes so that the road from "Podunk" to "Possum Trot" can be paved.

But when the only politician with enough courage speaks out against this iniquitous system the governor begins "hollering" nigger. This is always the pattern that is followed.

They can talk about economy and honesty in state government until they are blue in the face but it will never be until the county unit system is abolished. Taxpayers, wake up!

DISILLUSIONED TAXPAYER.

Chester Bowles Advances Sensible Foreign Aid Plea

If Chester Bowles were to sit silent in Congress for the rest of this session, the speech he delivered Monday would be enough in itself to have made his election last November by the voters of the Second Connecticut District a national public service. Bowles' subject was the mutual security program, often mistakenly called "foreign aid" and frequently as "worthless giveaways."

What the former ambassador to India had to say about it constituted a refreshingly frank and constructive criticism by an understanding friend.

There is no question where Rep. Bowles stands. He is for mutual security wholeheartedly and he is going to vote for the full authorization requested by President Eisenhower. But this does not keep Bowles from seeing the need for basic improvements in the program. He proposes steps designed to "compel less expediency, less waste, less confusion and consequently better performance."

There ought to be widespread approval for Bowles' very first recommendation, for a revised statement of purpose. He would de-emphasize communism as the chief reason for the mutual security program, stressing instead the long-term interest of this country "in a worldwide atmosphere of expanded freedom."

Bowles is under no illusion about the necessity for keeping the United States well armed in these uncertain times. Neither would he cut off military assistance where it can continue to be of real assistance in strengthening the free world. He cites Western Europe, Greece, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Korea and Taiwan as cases where military assistance from the United States continues to be essential.

Yet there can hardly be any doubt now that the United States has put too many guns in its mutual security basket. He names two large continents—Africa and South America — as areas in which military assistance has virtually no place. And in that "vast arc of Asia that stretches from Lebanon to Manila," as Bowles describes it, "the principal threat to world peace comes not from Soviet tanks and jets but from economic strangulation, injustice and frustration."

An outstanding merit of the Bowles analysis is that it proposes specific means for improving the conditions and machinery of mutual security. He calls for the establishment of standards to assure that the funds distributed by Washington will result in measurable gains on the side of freedom. He would give priority to helping nations with "effective internal tax programs, controls over the importation of luxuries, constructive land reform measures, a relatively competent civil service and a relatively stable government with popular roots."

Congress has before it no more important international business than mutual security. All that it has done in the past is outdated by Chester Bowles' call for a new approach.

The Elevator All the Way

Of All Things: 27 years ago Everett C. Drake of Huntsville, Ala., was an elevator operator at the Russell Erskine Hotel in his home town. The elevator was marked "Up." At 41, this Rocket City native is president of Lowenstein's, one of the nation's largest textile makers. . . . Speaking of elevators, 1959 summer sightseers will find improved lift service in the Washington Monument. . . . Word from Charlie Maloof, the Helen, Ga., entrepreneur, via Jim Davidson's paper, is that a road is being built from Unicoi Park headquarters to Annie Ruby Falls. . . . The fastest train in 1958 was the Illinois Central's City of New Orleans which covered the 53 miles between Effingham and Centralia, Ill., in 39 minutes or 81.8 miles an hour.

JEST FOR TODAY: The girl from Texas shocked her Boston-born prospective mother-in-law by putting on gloves as they walked down the street in Dallas.

"My dear," said the elder of the two ladies, "where I come from, people would as soon see a girl put her hose on in public as her gloves."

"Shucks," said the Texas lass, "out here, they'd rather."

COOL RECEPTION: Speaking of Texas, "Pic" Larmour, the amateur editor at Graham, claims for Jefferson, "Pic's" state, the first ice-manufacturing plant in the U.S. "Pic" says, "A good east Texas Baptist saw it. When he went home and told what he had seen, the members of the church threatened to throw him out for lying. But one member suggested that they be fair and investigate first, so Brother Jones was sent. He returned and reported: 'I know it is amazing but they are actually making ice in July.' So the church kicked both of them out."

Book Burners Do Incalculable Harm

I remember some years ago when the Revised Standard Version was first given to the public that several ministers living in different parts of the country got into the newspaper headlines because of their spectacular demonstrations of disapproval of the new version. Some of these men actually burned portions of the new translation in their pulpits.

Such "disapproval made me wince for I do not see that book-burning has ever done any good. Books that ought to be burned are soon neglected anyway and in time they are discarded.

Especially was I pained to think that any man would burn God's word. I knew that the competent and splendidly trained men who labored on the translation were engaged in an inspired and blessed task of making God's word better understood by all men of our day. I knew, too, that they were not exploiting God's word in terms of their own ideas nor were they tampering with the Word of Life. They were sharing with us the great investigations of modern times into the meaning of ancient languages so that we might more perfectly understand God's message.

Now, of course, the RSV has been taken into millions of homes and has been placed on an untold number of pulpits and no one, I think, would wish to burn it.

Some of us were taught in school the wonderful sonnet by John Keats titled "On First Looking Into Chapman's Homer." We still remember that Keats, an enthusiastic reader of poetry, had long been accustomed to the translation of Homer's Odyssey by Alexander Pope. This translation is stilted and formal, lacking in color and vividness. Then Keats was introduced to the translation by George Chapman and the words of Homer came alive with beauty and imagination.

Something of the same experience has been ours as we have read the ancient Word in modern versions. Language usage and word meanings change with time and some of the phrases and wording of the King James Version, although exquisite in tone and pious in sentiment, do not convey meanings that are real to us. So we turn to the work of twentieth century translators to discover meanings which had been obscured.

The Bible was originally transcribed in such languages as ancient Hebrew and Biblical Greek. Those languages were, of course, used because they were tongues which the people knew. We speak another language and according to different idioms. We should have Bibles which speak according to our vocabularies. And the only burning needed is that these words of the Lord should inflame our hearts and spirits.

President Bobbled Herter Changeover

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Herter has had ample warning at the very beginning of his administration of the dangers of clumsy or poorly planned public relations in the conduct of foreign policy. In two public announcements in Augusta, Ga., President Eisenhower left the impression that he was hesitant to nominate Herter and unenthusiastic about his decision even after he made it.

The result of this, until the Senate's unanimous confirmation and the President's warm praise of Herter Wednesday, was that the new secretary seemed to be going into his job without the full backing of the White House.

Actually, it is unreasonable to suppose that the President would have intended in any way to embarrass the man he would have to rely upon as his principal foreign policy adviser.

He merely failed to think through the problem of replacing Dulles until the very last minute, though Dulles had been seriously ill for over two months, and then in the uncertainty and confusion of the resignation bobbled the public announcement.

If, now that the President has expressed his confidence, the incident forces the new secretary of state to think through the difficult and delicate relationship between public information and foreign policy, it may in the end have been worth the trouble.

For Herter is going within a few days into the floodlit arena of Paris and Geneva where the handling of public relations will almost certainly influence the course of policy and it is clear that the present public information policy of the State Department is inadequate to deal with the new situation.

This is not a new problem. It existed under former Secretaries Dean G. Acheson, Gen. George C. Marshall and James F. Byrnes, and probably under Thomas Jefferson as well.

The problem of the postwar period is fairly clear: It is that those officials who are informed on the facts of any current crisis are not available to the reporters and those who are available are either uninformed or unauthorized to speak.

This does not mean that no information on the crisis gets out, but it does mean that the information either comes out in the form of prepared statements by State Department spokesmen, which tend to formalize and heighten the crisis, or it comes out from foreign governments or in the imprecise language of congressmen and senators.

In an ideal world, with an ideal press and mass communications system and ideal allies who never "leaked" information and ideal enemies who did not concentrate on propaganda, maybe reporters would patiently wait until the great men decide to tell the world what they are doing.

The millenium, however, has apparently been delayed and the problem now is to take the foreign policy information problem seriously and create a system in which officials are both informed and available and wise to the pitfalls of both policy and journalism.

Dalai Lama Likes Mango Ice Cream

We were sitting around the office between editions the other night when the subject of the Dalai Lama's Sunday dinner got on the agenda. The Dalai Lama, regular readers of the South's Standard Newspaper may recall, had fled into India from Red-racked Tibet. He had come by yak-skin raft across the raging rivers and by mule up and down the lofty Himalayas.

Now he was in India and aboard an air-conditioned train. And it was Sunday.

They fed the Dalai Lama well on the air-conditioned train. There was curried chicken and a lot of side dishes and the meal was topped off by mango ice cream. It was the mango ice cream that stopped us.

One of the boys on the copy desk who had served in the South Pacific during the war said he had eaten of the fruit of the mango and that it was a splendid fruit. "It tastes," he said, "something like apple, peach and pineapple all mixed up together."

Over on the city desk the night city editor said he had met a couple of natives out there on one of those islands and that they might send us a few mangoes.

But no one had ever eaten mango ice cream. So we got to wondering how mango ice cream would go in this country. If the Dalai Lama ate it — and for Sunday dinner, too — then it must be pretty good. We fell to mulling over the possibilities of starting a mango ice cream factory. Maybe we could get Dalai to endorse our product. "I eat mango ice cream regularly. It is delicious." —signed, Dalai Lama.

This conversation so inspired one of the copy boys he went next day by one of our city's outstanding dispensers of ice creams. "A dish of mango ice cream," he said to the waitress. She looked at him, he reported later, as though he was a nut of some kind.

The Encyclopedia Americana goes on at some length about the mango. It speaks of the great splendor of the mango tree. "It is for their fruits, however, that they are most esteemed. These are widely used for human food, especially in the East, either ripe, in which condition they are eaten raw with or without wine, sugar and spices, or unripe as preserves, jellies or pickles. They are also used for making wine and glucose. The finer varieties are considered equal to the choicest pineapples and even to the mangosteen."

But not a word about mango ice cream.

We couldn't decide between editions the other night if it would be best to import the mangoes and make the ice cream here or whether it might be best to take an ice cream factory out there and then import via aircraft the finished ice cream — frozen, of course.

Partial Text of Report on Milledgeville Hospital

1. Findings

COMMITTEE'S WORK: The Committee has interviewed the following witnesses with whom the administration and professional staffing of the Milledgeville State Hospital were discussed: T. G. Peacock, M.D., Superintendent; Thomas B. Phinizy, M.D., Senior Physician, Psychiatry; R. W. Bradford, M.D., Assistant Superintendent; Zeb L. Burrell, Jr., M.D., Assistant Medical Director, Jones Hospital; Joe D. Combs, M.D., Clinical Director; Wallace M. Gibson, M.D., Medical Director, Jones Hospital; Stephen E. Kramer, M.D., Psychiatrist, Veterans Building; Y. H. Yarbrough, M.D., Senior Consulting Psychiatrist; Judge Alan Kemper, Director, State Department of Public Welfare. In addition, the committee has carefully reviewed earlier studies of Milledgeville State Hospital, the experience in other states, and other written materials detailed in a bibliography attached to this report as Exhibit A. This committee has interviewed Dr. William Rottersman, formerly chairman of the Kansas Advisory Commission on institutional management, on the experience in Kansas and elsewhere.

Kemper Cited

FINDINGS: Based on the foregoing testimony and documents as well as extensive thought and discussion by the committee, it makes the following findings:

(1) The Director of Public Welfare: The committee finds that to a large degree, the administration of Milledgeville State Hospital has been dominated by Judge Alan Kemper. Dr. Peacock testified (Peacock, pp. 392-95) (See testimony of Dr. Combs as to hiring and firing) (Combs, pp. 223-24) that the allocation of funds within the budget has always been a matter finally decided by Judge Kemper. Dr. Peacock's testimony indicated that Judge Kemper's orientation, to a large degree, controlled the recommendations made by Dr. Peacock to Judge Kemper. The committee finds that Dr. Peacock, during his entire term as superintendent, has made no written request to Judge Kemper for assistance in obtaining additional funds for the program for psychiatric treatment at Milledgeville State Hospital. The committee further finds that there has been a lax system followed in formulating the budget. Dr. Peacock testified that his recommendations were passed on to the business administrator of the hospital orally and that the business administrator passed on such requests to Judge Kemper in whose offices the request for biennial appropriations were drawn for presentation to the Legislature.

The Committee is impressed by the consistent testimony of all witnesses that there has been an emphasis on the improvement of physical plant at Milledgeville State Hospital and also on improvement of medical and surgical care for Milledgeville State Hospital patients, Staff and Staff dependents. As a result, the physical plant and such medical and surgical care have been improved during the administration of Dr. Peacock and Judge Kemper. The Committee finds that there was no similar emphasis on psychiatric care and treatment. The Committee commends Judge Kemper for the great improvement in buildings and physical facilities during his tenure.

$25,900 Annually

While it is clear from the Annual Report of Milledgeville State Hospital and from all sources that a staff of consultants from the surrounding towns and cities has been created in connection with medical and surgical care with a budget appropriation of some $25,900 annually devoted to such consulting physicians, there has never been an organized or active staff of consulting psychiatrists. The Committee further finds that there has been no effective use by Milledgeville State Hospital of psychiatric consultants.

The Committee finds that both Dr. Peacock and Judge Kemper have not made the fullest possible use of the funds already appropriated to the Hospital for improving psychiatric care and treatment of patients at Milledgeville State Hospital. The Committee finds that Judge Kemper, a lay person, was interested in developing good State Hospital buildings, farm pond, and other physical facilities as well as medical and surgical care. The same degree of emphasis was not exerted to carry out repeated recommendations made to improve psychiatric care and treatment at the Hospital. While this emphasis is understandable in a lay person, the Committee believes that such emphasis should be changed for the benefit of Milledgeville State Hospital and the State of Georgia. The Committee emphasizes as the most important recommendation of all the need for the Officer at the State level in charge of mental patients and institutions in the State of Georgia to be a qualified psychiatrist whose knowledge will more nearly enable him to understand the needs of mentally ill patients than the knowledge of a lay person, no matter how competent and well intentioned he might be.

Personal Use

(2) Judge Kemper and Organizational Channels: Approximately two and one-half years ago, Judge Kemper made use of the medical and surgical facilities of the Jones Hospital at Milledgeville State Hospital for his own personal use. Dr. Burrell testified to the Committee that Judge Kemper was the first patient at Milledgeville State Hospital to be administered the drug orinase in the treatment of diabetes. . . . The Committee finds that the result of Judge Kemper's making use of the medical facilities of the Jones Hospital has been a close personal relationship among Judge Kemper, Drs. Wallace M. Gibson and Zeb L. Burrell Jr. The testimoney of all three of those men indicates that Judge Kemper created a serious deviation from normal organizational relationships by giving his ear to members of the Staff without going through the organizational channels. Dr. Burrell testified (Burrell, p. 157; p. 168) that Judge Kemper and Dr. Peacock were able to afford him facilities for his investigational drug program and for his medical program when he could not have obtained them otherwise. Although the Committee does not criticize Dr. Burrell for using every means at his command to further his professional work and study for the good of the patients at Milledgeville State Hospital, the Committee must find fault in Judge Kemper's handling of such a situation.

The Committee further finds that Judge Kemper was influenced by the personal feelings of Dr. Burrell toward Dr. R. W. Bradford in making the decision not to promote Dr. R. W. Bradford, the Assistant Superintendent for many years. While there may have been adequate reasons for not promoting Dr. Bradford, it could not but seem improper to Dr. Bradford that he should learn of the appointment of Dr. Norman Pursley to be Acting Superintendent at Dr. Gibson's house after others junior to Dr. Bradford already knew of Judge Kemper's decision. Judge Kemper was very candid in his testimony to the Committee (Kemper, pp. 412-13) indicating that his decision not to promote Dr. Bradford was directly related to opinions and information given to Judge Kemper by Dr. Burrell. (See also Burrell, p. 150, Lines 17-18.) The Committee finds that many, and indeed probably most, of the problems presently existing among the Staff at Milledgeville State Hospital stem from this method of communication among Judge Kemper and Drs. Burrell and Gibson. While such methods and procedures are common to the political world in which field Judge Kemper professed to the Committee to be qualified (Kemper, p. 433), they are not appropriate in a hospital for the care and treatment of the sick.

Not Professional

The Committee further advises that, so long as the Superintendent of Milledgeville State Hospital is subject to an Officer at the State level whose principal interests and competence are not in the professional area, such methods and practices will continue at Milledgeville State Hospital. In such a climate, Milledgeville State Hospital will never be the kind of institution which the people of the State of Georgia desire and need, no matter how much money is appropriated to the Hospital.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION:

(1) It is recommended that the Governor create a Division of Mental Institutions in the State Department of Public Health.

(2) It is recommended that the Governor immediately appoint an Advisory Committee on Mental Institutions. This Committee should be comprised as follows: Two should be appointed by the Governor from a list of four physicians nominated by the Medical Association of Georgia; two to be appointed by the Governor from a list of four Board certified psychiatrists nominated by the Georgia Psychiatric Association; two to be appointed by the Governor from a list of four nominated by the Georgia Association for Mental Health; one to be appointed by the Governor from a list of two nominated by the Georgia Bar Association; one to be appointed by the Governor from a list of two nominated by the Georgia Academy of General Practice; one to be appointed by the Governor from a list of two prominent businessmen nominated by the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce; one prominent businessman to be appointed by the Governor from the State at large; ex officio members of the Advisory Committee will be the heads of the Department of Psychiatry at Emory University and the Medical College of Georgia.

Administrative Shift

(3) It is recommended that administrative responsibility for Milledgeville State Hospital be transferred to the newly created Division of Mental Institutions in the State Department of Public Health.

(4) It is recommended that the Advisory Committee select and have authority to recommend to the Director of the Department of Public Health a Board certified or Board eligible psychiatrist with administrative experience for appointment as the Director of the Division of Mental Institutions in the State Department of Public Health. In the judgment of the MAG Committee, the Advisory Committee cannot obtain the services of a qualified psychiatrist with administrative experience for a salary less than $25,000 a year or more. Therefore, the MAG Committee recommends that the position of Director of the Division of Mental Institutions in the Department of Public Health carry with it a salary with a minimum provision of $25,000 a year.

(5) It is recommended that the Advisory Committee work with the Director of the Department of Public Health in immediately appointing a temporary director of the Division of Mental Institutions. In the period before the appointment of the temporary director of the Division of Mental Institutions, the director of the Department of Public Health should be directly responsible for the Milledgeville State Hospital.

(6) This Committee appreciates the services of Dr. T. G. Peacock and the need for a person of his qualifications to be Superintndent of Milledgeville State Hospital. In kindness to Dr. Peacock's physical condition and devotion to duty, he should be retired for reasons of ill health as soon as feasible and replaced by a board certified or board eligible psychiatrist with at least three years' administrative experience in a public or private psychiatric institution. He should be chosen by the Director of the Division of Mental Institutions and approved by the Advisory Committee.

Add Psychiatrists

(7) It is recommended that the Advisory Committee be charged with the responsibility to begin looking immediately for at least five qualified psychiatrists, the names of whom can be submitted to the Superintendent of Milledgeville State Hospital and the Director of the Division of Mental Institutions for appointment to the professional staff at Milledgeville State Hospital as soon as possible.

(8) It is recommended that the Advisory Committee establish liaison with appropriate legislative committees as soon as possible to plan further action in the immediate future, in the next year, and over the future years.

This MAG Committee has discussed and considered various other general recommendations. It believes, however, that such recommendations are within the province of the Advisory Committee above recommended. It is believed that, by appropriate screening of the population at Milledgeville State Hospital, many patients could be found to be non-psychotic, needing only special nursing care but not psychiatric treatment. Such patients could be cared for in institutions separate from the public mental institutions of Georgia so as to qualify for Federal assistance to the extent of some $50.00 a month under 42 U.S.C.A., Sections 301 through 305 and Sections 1351 through 1354. Such Federal Assistance could well run in excess of $1,500,000 a year not now available under present organization.

MEDIUM-RANGE RECOMMENDATIONS: Over the next one to eight months the Advisory Committee should be charged with responsibility for implementing (and, where legislation is necessary, to confer with the proper legislative committee or committees) to remedy wrong practices found by this Committee in the following areas:

Pay Not Competitive

(1) PERSONNEL PRACTICES: Inequities presently exist in the administration of maintenance as to employees at Milledgeville State Hospital and in charging the employees for such maintenance. The present classifications with the State Merit System for Board certified or Board eligible psychiatrists result in pay which is not competitive. Action should be taken to raise the classifications of Board certified or Board eligible psychiatrists on the staff at Milledgeville State Hospital. The Jones Hospital, the medical and surgical division of Milledgeville State Hospital, presently cares for all employees and dependents of employees as well as patients committed to the care of Milledgeville State Hospital. The Jones Hospital should not care for anyone other than a patient of the Milledgeville State Hospital and resident employees. Voluntary prepaid medical and surgical insurance should be provided as a fringe benefit for employees with a provision for election by the employee to have his dependents covered at his cost.

(2) CENTRALIZATION: The administration of Milledgeville State Hospital presently is centralized so that administrative responsibility for almost twelve thousand patients is centered in one man. The hospital and its clinical services should be decentralized so that no one physician has administrative responsibility for clinical services to more than 2,000 patients.

DIRECTED SURVEY
Dr. W. Bruce Schaefer

Consulting Staff

(3) OTHER MATTERS: Further advantages should be taken of the facilities existing in the State of Georgia for services at Milledgeville State Hospital. A consulting staff in psychiatry should be organized and activated with regular consultation to members of the psychiatric staff at Milledgeville State Hospital. Liaison with general practitioners of the State of Georgia could be established and more services obtained from them for the hospital by establishing a policy of inviting the general practitioners of Georgia to come to Milledgeville State Hospital one day a year to assist in the physical examinations of all patients at the hospital. A vocational rehabilitation program for patients in the hospital should be developed in cooperation with the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the State Department of Education. A training program for residents in psychiatry should be established in coordination with the Medical College of Georgia and Emory University. Research at Milledgeville State Hospital should be encouraged but only under the supervision of a staff research committee as more particularly recommended later in this report in connection with drugs and research. Public relations are an important aspect presently neglected at Milledgeville State Hospital. A department of public relations should be established. The services of lay volunteer workers should be obtained for the hospital. An active program of psychotherapy should be instituted under the direction of a staff committee on psychotherapy. The services of a resident chaplain should be obtained in cooperation with the Georgia Council of Churches. The services of the Eugene Talmadge Memorial Hospital should be obtained along the lines of the statement forwarded to the committee by the Medical College of Georgia attached to this report as Exhibit B. The dissemination of information on the emergency care of psychiatric patients to general practitioners in the State of Georgia should be furthered in cooperation with the Southern Regional Education Board and the Mental Health Division of the Department of Public Health.

Need of Facilities

(4) New State Facilities: The State of Georgia is presently in great need of new facilities for the treatment of the mentally ill other than at Milledgeville State Hospital. The most expedient ways to obtain screening centers in major population centers around the State of Georgia should be investigated and implemented. It is recommended that funds be allocated for the establishment of State-operated screening centers for committed mental patients in association with Emory University School of Medicine and the Medical College of Georgia.

LONG-RANGE RECOMMENDATIONS: The Advisory Committee and the appropriate legislative committee or committees should, as soon as possible, give consideration to the drawing up of legislation creating a State Department of Mental Health. Such Department of Mental Health shall administer the medical and physical care and the mental rehabilitation of patients in all public institutions charged with care and treatment of mentally ill persons. The Department will be responsible for the State's entire mental health program, including planning, program development, research, training and treatment. The Department will also be responsible for the development and maintaining of community psychiatric clinics throughout the State of Georgia.

Supervising and responsible for the Department of Mental Health shall be a Board of Mental Health of ten members similar in composition and selection to the previously described Advisory Committee.

II. Drugs and Research

COMMITTEE'S FINDINGS:

(1) Dr. Zeb L. Burrell Jr. is qualified scientifically as an expert to investigate the drugs in question as specified in Section 505 (a), Regulation 2.111 of the Food and Drug Act. The studies as carried out by Dr. Burrell as shown by the patients' records and Dr. Burrell's publications are adequate. . . .

(2) It appears . . . that in some instances Dr. Burrell solicited decisions of the staff at Milledgeville State Hospital with respect to the administering of particular drugs to particular patients. The committee finds, however, that Dr. Burrell did not have any established practice or policy of obtaining the prior opinion of the staff psychiatrist in charge of the particular patient that the drug was indicated in the treatment of the condition of his particular patient. It appears that Dr. Burrell, in most instances, assumed the responsibility for decisions to administer the drug to particular patients without obtaining consultation or advice from other physicians. . . .

(3) With respect to obtaining and handling of funds granted by the drugs houses to Dr. Burrell . . . the committee finds as follows: Dr. Burrell made no attempt to conceal any disposition of those funds. Dr. Burrell did not use good judgment in handling the Medical Research Fund as he did. Dr. Burrell alone had complete control and disposition of the funds. Decisions in most instances to compensate physicians or assistants by "bonus" or "honorarium" were made by Dr. Burrell alone after the services had been furnished by the recipient.

Spent $19,500

Of approximately $19,500 spent by Dr. Burrell from June, 1956, through December, 1958, only approximately $7,500 was used for items relating to equipment and comfort in the laboratories. Approximately $12,000 was used for personal payments to Dr. Burrell, the salary of Mrs. Burrell, and for entertainment of and payments to others in amounts determined by Dr. Burrell. He compensated doctors of surrounding towns on a consulting basis by grants after the services had been rendered. Less than $5,000 was spent for items directly made necessary by the research. . . . The committee, therefore, finds that Dr. Burrell used the funds from the drug houses for the large part in ways which increased and emphasized his personal power with employes and associates at the hospital. The more normal arrangement in an institution such as Milledgeville State Hospital would provide that no one man be given the power in his sole discretion to disburse such a considerable sum of money to staff or other persons or to the comfort of such persons.

(4) The committee finds that Milledgeville State Hospital obtained with respect to each patient to whom investigational drugs were administered, a blanket consent to "any recognized psychiatric treatment" indicated for the improvement of the condtion of each patient. . . . (The committee received answers to questionnaires from 37 state mental hospitals. It reported that 32 administered investigational drugs and that only seven of these required consent of guardian or next-of-kin or committing authority "with respect to each individual investigational drug to be administered to a particular patient." Twenty-five states considered either the original blanket consent or, where appropriate, consent of patient, or the normal implied consent to any recognized treatment . . .).

Drug Program

(5) The committee finds that the March 5, 1959, directive of the governor, now in force with respect to Milledgeville State Hospital, restricts the investigational drug program. The committee finds that the optimum treatment of patients . . . requires the use of investigational drugs. . . .

The committee recommends: That the Governor's Directive be modified to require as follows:

(1) That no drug be administered to a patient at Milledgeville State Hospital without the consent of the patient, where appropriate, or of the guardian or next-of-kin of the patient where personal consent cannot be obtained, unless the drug has previously been tested for toxicity and analysis on animals and humans.

(2) That drugs which have been tested for toxicity and analysis on animals and humans may be administered to patients . . . pursuant to the Regulations of the Federal Food and Drug Administration after a staff decision with respect to each drug and each patient as recommended below:

(a) A research committee of five physicians on the staff of Milledgeville State Hospital serving exofficio as chairman of that research committee, be set up:

(i) To decide as to the initiation of each investigative drug program;

(ii) To give orders for disbursing funds received from drug houses in connection with the investigational drug program at Milledgeville State Hospital. Additional compensation should not be paid full-time employes of the State of Georgia unless the principle and method of payment are approved by a ruling of the Attorney General of the State of Georgia.

(b) The office of Director of Research should be established. The Superintendent should appoint the Director of Research who will be advised by, and who will advise with, the Research Committee mentioned in paragraph (a) above with respect to the general administration of the investigational drug program at Milledgeville State Hospital.

Decision by 2

(c) Before administering an investigative drug to any patient at Milledgeville State Hospital, the decision to administer the drug should be made, except in emergency, by two Staff members, one of whom is the Clinical Psychiatrist in charge of the particular patient. An affirmative finding should be entered in writing that the particular drug is indicated for treatment of the patient's physical or mental condition.

(d) Funds received from drug houses should be paid to and handled through the Hospital Committee mentioned in paragraph (a) above. Decisions to compensate for work in the investigative drug program should be cleared with the Attorney General as to principle and method in advance and the decisions made before the services for which compensation is authorized are performed.

(e) Investigational drugs should be administered only to patients as to whom the standard consent to treatment is obtained on the admission of that patient. If drugs should be developed at Milledgeville State Hospital and such drugs have not been tested elsewhere for toxicity and analysis on animals and humans, individual consent from the patient where appopriate or, where not appropriate, from the patient's guardian or next-of-kin, should be obtained as to each particular drug.

(3) That the Director of Research and Research Committee adopt the procedures and forms of consent used by the Division of Mental Health, Nebraska Board of Control of State Institutes. (A part of Exhibit D.)

(4) The Committee strongly recommends that programs of research, such as investigational drug programs, be encouraged in the future. It is most important to give the best care and treatment to patients at Milledgeville State Hospital. To attain this vital emphasis it is necessary and wise to encourage research not only to afford the best treatment at the time to the patient, but to attract the best candidates for training in medicine and psychiatry.

III. Drug, Alcoholic Addiction of Staff

A. ADDICTION AMONG PRESENT STAFF

x x x

COMMITTEE'S FINDINGS: Based on the foregoing testimony, the Committee finds as follows:

(1) Dr. Peacock testified . . . that he himself, before coming to Milledgeville State Hospital, had a problem with alcohol. Dr. Peacock said that he had not had any alcohol or drug problems while at Milledgeville State Hospital. . . .

(2) The Committee finds that one physician, previously of the Staff, was addicted to alcohol. The Committee finds that he was under the influence of alcohol while on duty and that his connection with the hospital was terminated on March 14, 1959. . . .

(3) The Committee finds that one staff member has been hospitalized because of problems of this kind, but the Committee has heard no direct evidence that he was under the influence of either alcohol or drugs while on duty. The Committee has heard no direct evidence of any other abuses on duty.

(4) The Committee finds that six staff members have previous histories of addiction to drugs or alcohol but has heard no evidence of present addiction.

B. EMPLOYMENT

COMMITTEE'S WORK: The Committee interviewed the witnesses named under "Committee's Work" in the previous section of this report with respect to the employment policy in cases of drug and alcoholic addiction.

COMMITTEE'S FINDINGS: Based on the foregoing testimony, the Committee finds as follows:

(1) Judge Kemper and Dr. Peacock have definitely followed a policy of looking for doctors having problems with alcohol and drugs as possible members of the Staff at Milledgeville State Hospital. Judge Kemper was explicit in saying that he had from time to time heard that some doctor was in trouble with drugs or alcohol and in each instance he had advised Dr. Peacock of the name and address of such persons. . . . There does not appear to be any dispute of fact concerning this policy.

Termed Unwise

(2) The Committee further finds that physicians with histories of addiction to drugs or alcohol have been hired when only partially rehabilitated. . . .

(3) The Committee finds that the policy of searching out physicians having problems with alcohol or drugs with the thought of making them members of the Staff of Milledgeville State Hospital before complete rehabilitation is unwise. On the other hand, the Committee finds and advises that it would not be improper for the Superintendent of Milledgeville State Hospital to employ a physician who has a past history of addiction to a drug or alcohol but who is considered completely rehabilitated.

COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATIONS:

(1) The Committee recommends that the employment of members of the professional Staff of Milledgeville State Hospital be left to the discretion of the Superintendent. It is further recommended that the Superintendent be given authority to employ those he thinks best qualified for positions considering all of the facts at his disposal. It is further recommended that the Superintendent make a thorough study of all applicants for positions on the professional Staff and create a written file concerning such applicants.

IV. Neglect of Patients

x x x

COMMITTEE'S FINDINGS:

(1) Emergency operations have been scheduled and performed as required.

(2) There have been great strides made in recent years in scheduling and performing elective surgery. Because of the crowded conditions of Milledgeville State Hospital and the fact that the Hospital provides, as a fringe benefit to employees, medical and surgical service to them and their dependents free of charge or for a nominal charge, some elective surgery has been delayed. Forty to fifty per cent of beds and time at the Jones Hospital is taken up by treatment of employees and employees' dependents. x x x

COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATIONS:

(1) Any actual delays in the scheduling of elective surgery of patients of Milledgeville State Hospital should be remedied, consistent with the facilities and the number of patients.

(2) The Committee recommends that all employees of Milledgeville State Hospital be provided voluntary prepaid insurance for medical and surgical care, paid for by the State, with employees allowed to elect, and pay for, coverage for their dependents. It realizes that the Jones Hospital has had under its care not only the nearly 12,000 patients duly admitted to the Milledgeville State Hospital but also 2,200 employees and from 6,000 to 8,000 employees' dependents (Gibson, pp. 269-70). The provision of insurance coverage for employees and their dependents would afford them a free choice of physician in Milledgeville or in other towns and thereby relieve the pressure on the Jones Hospital. No one other than mental patients and resident employees should be treated at the Jones Hospital except as an emergency. The Committee believes that the providing of such insurance coverage will afford employees sufficient fringe benefit in this area at an ultimate economy to the State of Georgia.

(3) If it should be determined that the State cannot subsidize such a medical and surgical program of insurance without legislation, such legislation should be introduced at the next session of the Legislature. In the meantime, such coverage should be afforded with the employees paying the premiums.

V. Dr. Gibson, Chief Surgeon

COMMITTEE'S FINDINGS:

(1) Dr. Gibson has temporarily removed instruments from the operating room of the Jones Hospital for use in operations at private hospitals. Some of the instruments used by Dr. Gibson were owned by him personally and not by Milledgeville State Hospital. There is no evidence that any patient has suffered by reason of the above mentioned removal of instruments from Milledgeville State Hospital.

(2) The committee finds that Dr. Gibson has done surgery at private institutions in Eatonton, Milledgeville, and Vidalia. The committee has neither heard nor seen any direct evidence that he was compensated with his knowledge for any such services.

x x x

x x x

(1) The State of Georgia should purchase and own all instruments necessary for surgery in the Jones Hospital. No surgical instruments belonging to the State of Georgia should be removed from the Jones Hospital.

(2) The committee recommends the policy that full time members of the Milledgeville State Hospital should not render services outside of the hospital. The committee recognizes that certain exceptions to the foregoing may justifiably occur in emergencies and where members of the staff of Milledgeville State Hospital are consulted by physicians in the surrounding municipalities. The committee recognizes the present exception to this policy in the case of the Radiologist.

VI. Surgery by Nurses

COMMITTEE'S WORK: The Committee interviewed the following witnesses at Milledgeville on March 15, March 18 and April 7, 1959, concerning the performance by nurses of surgical procedures: T. G. Peacock, M.D., Superintendent; Thomas B. Phinizy, M.D., Senior Physician, Psychiatry; R. W. Bradford, M.D., Assistant Superintendent; Zeb L. Burrell Jr., M.D., Assistant Medical Director, Jones Hospital; Buford Quinn, Technician, Operating Room; Mrs. Marion Garland, R. N., Supervisor of Nurses of the Operating Room; Joe D. Combs, M.D., Clinical Director; Wallace M. Gibson, M.D., Medical Director, Jones Hospital; George Escamilla, M.D., Surgeon, Jones Hospital; Mrs. Myra S. Bonner, R.N., Supervisor of Nurses; Mrs. Ruth B. Hood, R.N., Operating Room; Mrs. Violet Tidwell, R.N., Operating Room; S. R. Smith, M.D., Anesthesiologist; Mr. John A. King, Chief Medical Technologist; Mrs. Tommie Berry, Baldwin County Nurses Association; Mrs. Marie Vincent, R.N., Operating Room; Oris H. Strickland, Technician, Operating Room; Miss Joyce Smith, R.N., Operating Room; Thomas A. Brantley Sr., Medical Technologist; Judge Alan Kemper, Director, State Department of Public Welfare; Dr. James E. Baugh, Milledgeville; Mrs. Jacqueline Watson, R.N., Milledgeville, formerly Nurse, Operating Room; Mrs. Buford Quinn, Technician, Laboratory; Mrs. R. A. Broome, R.N., Jones Hospital; William R. Crittenden, Acting Institutional Business Administrator.

COMMENT: The Committee, on the first day of taking testimony at Milledgeville on March 15, 1959, was confronted with a direct conflict of testimony with respect to the issue of whether any nurse or nurses had performed surgical procedures beyond the proper scope of duties of a First Assistant to the Surgeon. It returned to Milledgeville on March 18, 1959, and again on April 7, 1959, to take further testimony on this issue. After all of the testimony was taken, the posture of the evidence was as follows: Four witnesses testified positively that they had been present and witnessed Mrs. Marion Garland, R.N., Supervisor of Nurses of the Operating Room, Jones Hospital, perform various procedures beyond the proper scope of duties of a First Assistant. All four of such witnesses testified to witnessing the performance of vasectomies by Mrs. Garland while a similar operation on another patient was being performed by a surgeon in the same room. All four witnesses testified that they had witnessed Mrs. Garland doing such operations both under the direct supervision of a doctor and not under the direct supervision of a doctor. Two of the four witnesses testified positively to having witnessed Mrs. Garland perform vasectomies, salpingectomies and hipnailing, when no doctor was present in the operating room. One witness testified to the performance by Mrs. Garland of appendectomies with no doctor present. Three of the four witnesses also testified that they had witnessed Mrs. Garland administering spinal anesthesia when a doctor was present in the operating room and two when a doctor was not present in the operating room.

Deny Testimony

On the other hand, Dr. Gibson and Mrs. Garland denied all of the above testimony categorically. Those among the present employes of the operating room interviewed by the Committee denied ever having witnessed any such surgical procedure by Mrs. Garland.

All witnesses testifying on this issue on March 18, 1959, and on April 7, 1959, were asked, as a voluntary matter, whether they would give their testimony under oath. All witnesses on those days did take the oath as a voluntary matter.

The Committee examined the witnesses at length on collateral issues, principally on the events occurring on the night of March 6, 1959, the night on which the issue of The Atlanta Constitution first appeared carrying the charge that a nurse at the Jones Hospital had performed surgery. After lengthy questioning concerning the events of that night, it began to appear to the Committee that Dr. Gibson, Mrs. Garland and the present members of the staff of the Operating Room were giving a similar story of the events of that night. This began to appear to be a pre-arranged story. Certain inconsistencies on smaller facts about that night were detected. The Committee felt that it was necessary to pursue this collateral issue to the ultimate truth.

Falsification Charged

On April 7, 1959, it became apparent to the Committee by incon-

ROSE QUEEN GETS HER CROWN

50,000 at Thomasville Hail Lovely Roses, Girls

By JAMES SHEPPARD
Constitution Staff Writer

THOMASVILLE—Girls, young and old, millions of sweet-smelling roses, and spine-twinging march music of a two-hour parade transformed Thomasville into a gay fairyland of beauty, pomp and pageantry for the 39th annual Rose Festival here Friday.

The colorful spectacle, witnessed by a throng of 50,000 South Georgians and visitors, presented two beauty champions—one a flower, the other a girl:

An Etoile de Holland rose and Miss Jerreann Herring, 18, of Ochlochnee.

Miss Herring was crowned "Queen of Roses" of the festival. The Etoile de Holland bloom was crowned "Queen of Roses" of the show.

The champion rose was entered in the name of 7-year-old Susan Wine of Thomasville. "My daddy grew it," Susan said. Her parents are Dr. and Mrs. Mervin B. Wine.

The Etoile de Holland, a hardy variety, withstood Thomasville's recent unfavorable rose-growing weather to win the show. Rains and an early blooming season cut short the rose crop.

Bright sunshine blazed down on the steaming festival scene during the mammoth parade, summerizing many faces with a rich pink tan.

Queen Jerreann was crowned by Miss Dixie, Elaine Herndon, 20, of Durham, N.C. Miss Herndon placed the crown, a tiara of sequins and rhinestones, on Queen Jerreann's ash-blonde curls. Rep. J. L. Pilcher of Meggs handed her four dozen red roses.

WELCOME MAT

The City of Roses rolled out a royal welcome mat for the longest rose festival parade in its history and paid tribute to Herbert L. Stoddard Sr., Thomasville ornithologist.

The grand sweepstakes award went to Sol Altman, who won 11 blue ribbons for the day. Ivan Griffin won the coveted Thomasville Rose Trophy for three roses of variety in three stages of development.

WINS MEDAL

Mary Bostick was awarded the American Rose Society's silver medal for the best collection in hybrid teas. Mrs. Wesley Milligan won the Tri-Color award for the best artistic design.

The best table award went to Mrs. Howard Arnold.

Brooks County was named as having the best city or county afloat in the huge parade. The float depicted Georgia life 100 years ago.

trovertible and credible testimony and documentary evidence that Dr. Wallace Gibson had falsified his testimony concerning the events of the night of March 6, 1959. Dr. Gibson was confronted with this evidence and did not deny the falsification. (Gibson, Vol. V, pp. 166-79).

COMMITTEE'S FINDINGS: Based on the foregoing testimony and documentary evidence, the Committee makes the following findings:

(1) The Committee believes the testimony of the four eye witnesses who testified to the performance by Nurse Garland of surgical procedures beyond the scope of duty of a First Assistant to a Surgeon.

(2) The Committee finds that Dr. Wallace Gibson falsified evidence given to it on a collateral issue. (Gibson, Vol. V, pp. 166-79).

COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATION: While the Committee appreciates the hard work over the years of Dr. Wallace Gibson in developing the medical and surgical services at the Jones Hospital, the Committee, because of the findings it has had to make, recommends that he be relieved of administrative responsibility for the Jones Building.

2-Yr. College At Montreat Is Endorsed

By the Associated Press

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. (South) Friday night in effect endorsed th eaction earlier this year of the board of directors of Montreat College in North Carolina to make it a junior college.

A committe estudying the Montreat situation had recommended creation of an unbiased committee to make a study at the North Carolina school before taking any action.

However, the Assembly adopted a floor amendment which said it affirmed its confidence in the board an dleft any needed study to the board members. Earlie this year the Montreat College board voted to make the school a two-year, instead of four-year, college.

The institution is not accredited, the committee said, due to lack of money for necessary libraries and laboratories and to pay for teachers.

Recommendations on the Montreat conference grounds were approved with only one amendment. The Assembly asked that the board of trustees of the Mountain Retreat Assn. change its charter to make the board of trustees directly elected by the Assembly.

IN ATLANTA CHURCHES

Revival Season Goes Into Another Week

Several Atlanta churches will hold revivals next week.

The Rev. William Doston, pastor Eastern Hills Baptist Church, Montgomery, Ala., will speak at 8 p.m. services beginning Sunday at Decatur Heights Baptist Church.

The Rev. Harry E. Stanley, a missionary to Haiti, will speak at services beginning Wednesday at the Decatur Church of the Nazarene. Services will be held through May 10.

The Rev. Bevel Jones, pastor of Audubon Forest Methodist Church, and his father, the Rev. L. B. Jones, will team up to lead a revival at Capitol View Methodist Church beginning Sunday.

Dr. King Vivion, pastor of Vineville Methodist Church, Macon, will lead revival services beginning Sunday at University Heights Methodist Church. Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. through Friday in the Laurel Ridge School Auditorium.

Wesley Retreat

The Rev. Paul J. Renz, pastor of Peachtree Road Lutheran Church, will give three lectures on "The Protestant Reformation and It's Relevance Today" during the Georgia Tech Wesley Foundation Retreat Saturday at Unicoi State Park, near Helen.

Missionary to Korea

Dr. Stanley Craig Topple, Avondale Estates, will go to Korea this fall as a medical missionary of the Presbyterian Church, U.S. He will attend the institute for outgoing missionaries in Montreat, N.C., this summer before leaving for Korea.

Brazil Speaker

Miss Martha Little, missionary to Brazil, will speak at a 7:30 p.m. Thursday meeting at Emory Presbyterian Church.

Miss Little, a native of Carnesville, supervises the work of the mission's 34 primary evangelical schools in Minas Gerais, Brazil.

Bible Conference

The annual spring Bible conference of Adams Park Alliance Church will be held next week. Dr. Julian A. Bandy, president of Toccoa Falls Bible College, will be the principal speaker. Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday through Sunday and at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday throughout Friday.

Disciples Fellowship

The Greater Atlanta Union of Christian Churches (Disciples) will hold a fellowship meeting Sunday at West End Christian Church.

Dr. William T. Pearcy, president of the Board of Church Extension, of Indianapolis, Ind., will be the principal speaker at a 7:30 p.m. meeting. Four workshops on church development, membership cultivation, evangelism and church finance will be held at 5 p.m.

The young people will hold a rally beginning at 4 p.m.

Baptist Officers

George D. Miller, Forest Park, a second-year student at the University of Georgia Medical College, Augusta, is the new president of the Baptist Student Union of Georgia.

Miller was elected at the annual Spring Retreat recently at Rock Eagle Center, Eatonton. Pat McGlon, a student at Georgia State College, Atlanta, was elected vice president.

Some 387 students, from most of the 47 colleges and universities in Georgia, attended the three-day meeting.

Reinhardt Choir

The Reinhardt College Choir will sing at the 11 a.m. service of Kennesaw Methodist Church and at 7:30 p.m. at Roswell Methodist Church this Sunday.

Presbyterian Rally To Be Asked To Oppose a Catholic President

By KAY McLEOD

Presbyterians, meeting here this week and next, are weighing the possibilities of approving a statement which would warn of the "dangers" to the United States should a Roman Catholic be elected president.

Coming before the 99th General Assembly is an overture (resolution) which apparently reflects the concern of Protestants as to the effects a Catholic president or other high government official would have on their cherished principle of seperation of church and state.

The Catholic obviously referred to is Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) who is being mentioned as the 1960 Democratic nominee.

Approval of this overture would not be binding on the 800,000 plus members of the Southern denomination, but such a warning from the denomination's highest court would certainly influence the vote of many of its members.

The overture, from the Presbytery of Concord (North Carolina), is now in the hands of the Committee on Christian Relations which will report on Tuesday.

The Assembly will hear a talk Sunday night by a Mexican Presbyterian. This talk, by a man who gave up his childhood Catholic religion, could conceivably have a very strong influence on the vote of the commissioners.

The speaker will be Dr. Benjamin Alvarez, stated clerk (secretary) of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Mexico.

Alvarez was born in the mountains of Michoacan province, the son of an "ignorant but religious family."

Catholicism in Mexico, says Alvarez, is nothing like it is in the United States. He charges that it has become an almost "pagan religion."

Even Catholics from this country visiting South and Latin American countries have expressed private concern about the state of the church there, he said. They will not admit this publicly, but are quietly moving to remedy the situation, he said.

Some of Alvarez' earliest recollections center about family fights when his father became a Presbyterian. His father learned to read so he could read a copy of the Bible he found. His mother was opposed to his attending Protestant services and taking the children along.

When Alvarez wanted to attend a Presbyterian mission school his mother offered him money not to go. He says he later learned that this offer of money was made by the local priest.

Alvarez went, later came to this country to study and finally returned to Zitacuro as a Presbyterian minister.

Alvarez says he and his members have been subject to all kinds of persecution—"not by the government, not by the people but by the priests."

Alvarez points out that Catholicism is no longer the state religion in Mexico. Years ago, it was and conditions had reached such a state that the Catholic Church owned three-fourths of all the land he said.

In anti-clerical moves, the state took over all the land and today a church—Catholic or Protestant—cannot buy land to build a church. They may build on land with no rental charge, but there is always the threat that the government will take over the land and facilities at any time. Such does not occur often, says Alvarez.

Alvarez is not even a Mexican citizen, although he was born and works there. No clergyman in Mexico is considered a citizen. He's sort of a "man without a country."

Hospital Hard Hit In Panel's Report

Numerous Charges Made By Vandiver's Committee

was recommended, and Dr. Zeb Burrell Jr., who conducted a controversial drug research program at the hospital.

When The Constitution reported on March 7 that it had an affidavit charging that a nurse performed surgery, Dr. Peacock and Dr. Gibson vehemently denied the charge. Dr. Gibson later claimed he had 11 affidavits from operating room personnel to back him up.

The medical committee reported that in sworn testimony, Dr. Gibson and Mrs. Garland "categorically" denied the charge. "The committee believes the testimony of the four eye witnesses who testified to the performance by nurse Garland of surgical procedures beyond the scope of duty of a first assistant to a surgeon," the report declared.

"The committee finds," the report continued, "that Dr. Wallace Gibson falsified evidence given to it on a collateral issue."

The committee said Dr. Gibson was "confronted" with evidence that he had falsified his testimony and he "did not deny the falsification."

TELLS OF MEETING

The report stated that on the night The Atlanta Constitution ran the nurse-surgery story, Dr. Gibson, Mrs. Garland and other personnel of the operating room met to discuss the article. Later, their testimony to the committee "began to appear to be a pre-arranged story," according to the report.

Other charges the committee confirmed (and expanded on in some cases) were:

1. That Dr. Gibson used state hospital surgical instruments to perform operations in private hospitals.

2. That Dr. Burrell did not have any established practice or policy of obtaining the prior opinion of the staff psychiatrist in charge of the particular patient that the investigational drug he proposed to use was indicated in the treatment of the psychiatrist's patient.

3. That Dr. Burrell "did not use good judgment in handling the medical research fund as he did."

4. That of $19,500 received from drug firms for the program, $12,000 was used for personal payments to Dr. Burrell, the salary of Mrs. Burrell, and for entertainment of and payments to others in amounts determined by Dr. Burrell.

RESEARCH FUNDS

5. That Dr. Burrell used research funds "for the large part in ways which increased and emphasized his personal power with employes and associates at the hospital."

6. That Alan Kemper and Dr. Peacock have followed a policy of looking for doctors "having problems with alcohol and drugs as possible members of the staff" at the hospital.

7. That physicians with histories of addiction to drugs or alcohol have been hired when "only partially rehabilitated."

The committee criticized Kemper and Dr. Peacock for not making "the fullest possible use of the funds already appropriated to the hospital for improving psychiatric care and treatment of patients."

The report pointed out that Kemper was treated as a patient in the Jones building, which has functioned under the control of Gibson and Burrell.

"The testimony of all three of those men indicates that Kemper created a serious deviation from normal organizational relationships by giving his ear to members of the staff without going through the organizational channels," the report declared.

Kemper was criticized for being "influenced by the personal feelings of Dr. Burrell toward Dr. R. W. Bradford in making the decision not to promote Dr. R. W. Bradford, the assistant superintendent for many years," to hospital superintendant.

Further criticism was leveled at the hospital's "lax system . . . in formulating the budget."

Mental Care Reforms Hailed as 'Beginning'

against irregularities at the hospital.

"I believe the committee has done an outstanding job," Dr. Combs said, "and I think they will follow up to see to it that the recommendations are carried out."

SEES 'BEST THINKING'

"For this is a tremendous job that can't be done in a few months," he continued. "But I believe that the governor intends to make Milledgeville an outstanding psychiatric hospital instead of a custodial institution."

Peyton Hawes, former state senator from Elberton and president of the Georgia Mental Health Assn., said the doctors' report follows "the thinking of the best people in the mental health field."

Improved patient treatment at the hospital will require an initially high outlay of money, he noted, "but the state will be refunded tenfold."

SEES REPAYMENT

"For every dollar spent, the state will get back 10 by letting patients become taxpayers, rather than tax-burdens."

Rep. Phil Chandler of Baldwin County, a leader of a behind-the-scenes movement which helped bring to light irregularities that touched off the doctors' investigation, said the doctors did a "conscientious job."

"My interest in the Milledgeville investigation from the beginning has been to try to improve conditions and patient treatment at the hospital," Rep. Chandler said.

Dr. James H. Bryam, head of the Fulton County Medical Society, said the society's trustees plan to meet either Saturday or Sunday to study the Schaefer committee report.

SANDERS 'DELIGHTED'

J. O. H. Sanders, president of the Atlanta Mental Health Assn., expressed "delight" at the transfer of the hospital to the health department.

"I don't think it will solve all our problems," Sanders said, "but it is the beginning of the solution of the problems."

Sanders predicted great improvement in the treatment of the mentally ill in the future under the health department.

"I'm afraid it would not have happened if it had not been for Jack Nelson's articles in The Constitution," he added. "I am not saying that as flattery but as a statement of fact."

Kemper Yields Control, Transfers Mental Hospital to Health Dept.

the (doctor's) report and our own investigation."

He said that he had sent telegrams to the hospital staff "asking them to please carry on because we need their help."

Dr. Sellers said he felt the transfer of the hospital to his department poses "a great challenge" which he hopes to meet.

He said the Health department study of the hospital operation will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday.

THREE TO SERVE

Sellers said the study will be made by Dr. John Venable, associate health department director; Dr. Guy V. Rice, director of the health conservation service, and financial administrator Ernest Davis.

For immediate action, the doctors' committee, headed by Dr. Bruce Schaefer of Toccoa, recommended:

1. The transfer of the Milledgeville Hospital to the Health department.

2. Creation of a Division of Mental Institutions within the Health department.

3. Creation of an advisory committee for mental institutions.

4. Retirement of Dr. Peacock "for reasons of ill health as soon as feasible."

5. His replacement by a certified psychiatrist.

6. Five qualified psychiatrists, at least, for appointment to the staff.

7. Screening of non-psychotic patients from those who need prolonged mental treatment.

FEDERAL AID

The committee suggested such screening might clear the way for enough federal aid to finance "many of the improvements" urged in the report. The doctors said they discovered that assistance from the federal government might "well exceed" $1.5 million a year.

For medium-range (one to eight months) action, the doctors committee recommended that the Advisory Committee which they suggested be made up of physicians, psychiatrists and businessmen, remedy "wrong practices" found at the hospital.

The committee suggested changes in employe classifications, the establishment of a health insurance program for employes, decentralizing of hospital administration, a consulting staff in psychiatry, liaison between the hospital and general practitioners across the state, a public relations program and other reforms.

SCREENING CENTERS

It also suggested state funds be made available for establishment of state-operated screening centers in association with Emory University School of Medicine and the Medical College of Georgia.

As a long-range recommendation, it urged legislation for the creation of a State Department of Mental Health.

The committee urged that the Governor modify his directive regarding the use of experimental drugs at the Hospital and spelled out conditions under which such drugs should be used.

It "strongly" recommended that programs of research "such as the investigational drug programs," not be discontinued, but, rather, "be encouraged in the future."

The doctors also recommended that the superintendent of the hospital not hire any physicians having a history of drug or alcoholic addiction to do staff work "unless the superintendent is reasonably certain that the physician is definitely rehabilitated."

SURGERY DELAYS

They further recommended that delays in performance of surgery on patients be remedied, that the full-time hospital staff not perform outside services, and that the state buy its own surgical equipment for the hospital.

Welfare Director Kemper was obviously embittered by the report and its results, although Gov. Vandiver praised him for "the dedicated service he has rendered" the hospital and other institutions under his supervision.

The governor said Kemper could be proud of his long record—as long as all other Welfare Directors' combined.

But Kemper charged the doctors' committee had attacked his character, delved into the "personal life" of Dr. Peacock and said he doesn't see any immediate benefit that can be had from their report.

Kemper told a reporter the transfer was "the only thing that could be done since my usefulness had ceased to exist."

He would not comment on rumors that he might resign.

"Rumors are floating around all the time," he said. "I didn't start them, and I'm not mad about the report."

But he charged the doctors' "treatment of Dr. Peacock was sadistic, in my opinion."

Kemper said the "whole episode" had done "considerable harm to Milledgeville State Hospital."

"I hope less harm than I think," he said.

But he said he agrees with the governor's statement—"even the part praising me."

Kemper said he was pleased with one thing. "I'm glad that after this I won't be bothered any more about stories on Milledgeville."

Vandiver Proclaims Mental Health Week

Gov. Vandiver proclaimed next week as Mental Health Week—noting that mental illness is the state's top health problem—shortly after transferring the Milledgeville State Hospital to the State Health department Friday.

There are more patients in mental hospitals than in all other hospitals combined, the governor reported, and "the rate of recovery of mental patients is as high as for any other major illness when early and adequate treatment is provided."

He urged all Georgians to visit the Milledgeville hospital next Wednesday and Thursday during an "Operation Friendship" open house sponsored by the Georgia Mental Health Assn.

Cravey Told Point Blank Of Pending Indictment

room and listened briefly to Cravey's request to see the jury. Then he told him:

"We don't have a subpoena for you. We weren't expecting you today. Of course you know you will be served with a copy of any indictment before any action is taken. There's one pending against you before the jury now. You'll be given an opportunity to come before the jury."

As Cravey stood silently in contrast to his previous breezy air, Webb added, "You may waive notice and come before the jury now if you want to. But you will probably want to wait and read the indictment before committing yourself to the jury."

"Well," said Cravey, "I want to do what's proper."

Asked by reporters afterwards if he knew there was an indictment pending against him, Cravey said, "If there wasn't then my employes wouldn't be here."

Because he is a state official, Cravey must be served with a formal notice that there is an indictment against him to be presented to the jury before any action can be taken.

Five of Cravey's employes were called before the jury Friday as the jury apparently delved into travel and expense accounts of more than 20 Cravey employes during last year's political campaigns.

Four of the employes came over in answer to subpoenas served on them Thursday demanding travel and expense records, salary checks and other records on all loan and fire inspectors during April 1 to Nov. 30, 1958. A fifth was called before the jury during the afternoon.

Bringing the two large boxes of records were Mrs. Vivian Bates, head bookkeeper; Ralph Cadle, deputy industrial loan commissioner; Nellis Gray, examiner, and C. Lee Patterson, chief examiner. Later appearing was Harry Christian of the small loan department of Cravey's office.

Subpoenas to the witnesses carried the case caption, "The State versus Zack D. Cravey, felony and misdemeanor, conspiring to defraud and cheating and swindling."

Cravey walked breezily into the solicitor's office—without an invitation or a subpoena — about 11:30 a.m. He told reporters he had conferred with Atty. General Cook about whether he should have allowed original records to leave his office and learned "we should have had them photostated."

The comptroller general declared he had "some very good employes here" with the records, but added, "I'm a little anxious about these very important records." He also said he was available to testify "any time they want me. My office stays open six days a week unless I'm out. . . ."

Questioned by reporters about what he thought the case against him involved, Cravey said he thought it originated from "some rumors that started during the campaign last summer that I had some people traveling at state expense campaigning for me.

"Every time my men came in . . . I would have them assemble . . . and I talked to them on those occasions to caution them about politicking for me or anyone else on state time," Cravey asserted.

Cravey added that he told his employes, "Not one dime of state money was to be expended for mine or nobody else's campaign. Of course, they knew I was ready and willing to take legitimate contributions."

The comptroller general continued that he "didn't think there was any harm" in his records being called for, but he thought it was "uncalled for."

"You know the Watchdog Committee gave me a pretty close going over," he smiled. Then Cravey said that he "was afraid this is a little backwash" from his recent firing of employes in an economy move.

Shortly afterwards, he strode to the witness room and got the word from Webb.

Meanwhile, it was learned that two members of the Cravey clan are named among employes records subpoenaed by the jury. They are Rembert Cravey and Harold Cravey. Also listed among the records are the names of:

William L. Allagood, William G. Tippens, P. V. Couch Jr., Dean O. DeLamar; William G. Mann Jr., L. K. Stevens, John V. King Jr., M. W. Lowder, Thomas B. Michael, Quinton Newton, George Owens Jr., C. L. Patterson, J. R. Wimberly, T. F. Tarver, H. H. Gray, Stanton Adams, Howard Lancaster, S. C. Steadham and David C. Cadwell.

8 Physicians Resign Positions at Hospital

appointed the medical committee, they said they were satisfied.

All of the doctors who reportedly resigned were on the staff of the Jones Building under Dr. Gibson.

Dr. Bradford identified the other as: Dr. Nelson H. Brown and Dr. Dock Wardell, who were scheduled to leave in July anyway, at the end of a one-year training period; Dr. Raymond B. Perez, an intern under Dr. Burrell; Dr. E. W. Allen Jr., a part-time staff member who has been at the hospital only six months; Dr. William N. Newton, who has been at the hospital four months, and Dr. Sam Smith, who recently returned to the hospital after a year's training under a state of Georgia scolarship. None gave reasons for his resignation.

The only other members of the Jones Building Medical staff are Dr. Jorge Escamilla, an obstetrician, and Dr. Carlos Triana, a surgeon. Dr. Bradford said both these doctors confirmed they have no plans to resign.

Dr. Bradford said that he is acting as chief hospital administrator temporarily because Dr. Peacock is ill and Dr. Norman Pursley, acting superintendent, is visiting in Augusta.

There have been no reports of any other resignations, Dr. Bradford said. He said that Mrs. Marion Garland, operating room supervisor whom the committee found performed major surgery, was on duty Friday afternoon.

fin and Brinson from July 15, 1956, through July 15, 1958.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

The proposed Chalker indictment says the state was cheated of a total of $2,250 through his conspiracy with Woodard. The state allegedly lost $3,600 through the Griffin-Brinson conspiracy involving Woodard.

Both the proposed indictment against Chalker and Woodard and the Brinson - Griffin indictment charge that the false representation that Woodard was a bona fide employee was "knowingly and designedly made . . . with a joint and common intent to deceive, cheat and defraud the state out of money. . . ."

The charges against Griffin and Brinson, made in a joint indictment, contend they cheated the state of $16,600 by conspiring to put seven persons—including Woodard—on state parks payrolls who drew pay but did no work.

A joint indictment against Brinson and Jones charged they defrauded the state of $4,651.12 by conspiring to pay Jones for goods purchased by the state which allegedly were never delivered.

EMBRACERY CHARGED

Jones is the tractor dealer who this week was indicted on a chare on embracery for offering money to Grand Jury Foreman Ed Westlake at a time when the jury was considering an indictment against him for cheating the state.

Both of the embezzlement charges are further developments on the sales tax scandal which brought about the indictment of former state sales tax director Joseph W. Ray and the indictment and conviction of former tax consultant Woodrow W. Coleman.

The names of both Ray and Coleman are listed in the indictments as conspirators with Austin and Schacter in the embezzlement of state funds. Austin, a supermarket operator, is charged with embezzlement of $53,078.73 and Schacter, a furniture dealer, is charged with taking $6,269.25.

COLEMAN GOT SENTENCE

Transactions involving Austin and Schacter's businesses were among the five counts of embezzlement upon which Coleman was convicted in Fulton Superior court early this year. He received a sentence of six years.

Ray turned "state's evidence" in that trial and testified against Coleman. He has not yet been brought to trial.

The new charges against Griffin and Brinson, who previously had been indicted on charges of cheating and defrauding the state with other named persons, allege that they falsely represented the named persons as state parks employes who were entitled to monthly compensation when they and the employes knew this was false.

Following are the names of the persons, besides Woodward, who were allegedly placed on the payrolls, the period during which they were paid, and the total amount of which the state was allegedly defrauded:

Nina Pate, July 16, 1956, through July 15, 1958, $6,000; Heath Varnedee, Oct. 1, 1957, to July 15, 1958, $1,900; F. M. Sills, June 1, 1957, to Dec. 31, 1957, $1,050; J. R. Carson, May 16, 1958, to Oct. 31, 1958, $825; Bertha W. Barbaree, July 16, 1957, through Oct. 15, 1957, $450, and G. W. Sims, April 16, 1957, through Dec. 31, 1958, $2,175.

Two counts of the indictment charge that the offenses were "unknown from the time of the commission of said misdemeanor until the month of February, 1959.

The Brinson-Jones indictment charges in six counts that they conspired to defraud the state by giving Jones payment for undelivered goods which were allegedly sold to the state through Quality Tractor Co., Quality Parts & Implement Co., Miller-Ree Implement Co. or Mille-Ree, Inc.

MACHINERY LISTED

Listed among the undelivered items and the amounts paid for them were:

A self-propelled 36-inch rotary type mower, to be delivered to the Yam Grande State Park at Swainsboro, $890; one eight-disk harrow, to be delivered to Lincoln State Park, Millen, $445; 20 pest control units, to be delivered to the parks department office in Atlanta, of which only 10 were delivered, $753.62; one two-yard capacity earth mover, to be delivered to Magnolia Springs State Park, Millen, $997.50 and one spray machine to be delivered to Franklin Delano Roosevelt State Park, $695.

Each count charges that Jones and Brinson, through conspiracy and agreement, would acknowledge delivery of items to show they had been received, "whereas in fact, said property would not have been delivered."

It said Jones got purchase orders for goods "without having any intention to deliver to the said Department of State Parks the property called for in said purchase order, and without making said delivery, would render a bill" in the names of his firms for full payment.

The two embezzlement indictments charge that Austin and Schacter, in a conspiracy with Ray and Coleman, who were then employes of the State Revenue Department, delivered monthly cash sales tax payments in person to Ray and Coleman, who then made up returns showing lesser amounts due and divided the difference between the amounts actually due and the false amounts with them.

"By concealing said embezzlement and conspiracy and their participation therein," Austin and Schacter were "then and there aiding, abetting and enabling" the money to be stolen, the indictments against them charge.

lanta Development deposited $15,000 at the stated time. Cook also has records which may show disbursements of the funds received under the trusteeship of the "mystery men."

Verbal testimony in the matter is believed to have been highly conflicting.

THREE TESTIFY

Three of the erstwhile mystery figures appeared before Cook under subpoena Friday. They were Zack D. Cravey Jr. and Robert P. Cravey, the comptroller's sons, and John L. Taylor, his son-in-law.

Still not served were subpoenas for the two other investors, T. F. Pinkerton and W. W. Stribling.

Trammel McIntyre produced the subpoenaed records of Guaranty Title Insurance Co. Friday. The Bank of Upson records were identified by Robert Cravey and Charles Pasley, president.

Also questioned again was Sillin, who apeared with his attorney, Charles Baird.

Fire, Tractor and Wrecker Take Lives of 3 Georgians

An auto wrecker, a tractor and a house fire killed three Georgians Friday.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Hall, 61, of Rte. 1, Dacula, was killed when struck by a wrecker near her home, the state patrol said.

Troopers said Mrs. Hall was walking in a road near her home in Gwinnett County.

A Banks County farmer was killed when the tractor he was operating rolled over backward on top of him in a field about a mile and a half from his home.

He was identified as George C. Hart, 47.

Authorities said the tractor apparently went out of control at the end of a field, ran up a steep bank, and toppled over.

Mrs. Luther M. Henderson, 65, of Dalton, died of first and second degree burns after her clothing caught fire at her home. Her husband, 75, received second degree burns about the hands, arms and shoulders as he attempted to put out the fire on his wife's clothing. He was listed in fair condition.

Mrs. Henderson had leaned over to turn up a gas heater when her gown caught fire, members of the family said.

Lookouts Rip Crax, 14-6

Willis' Slam Helps Invaders Break 10-Year Poncey Jinx

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Chattanooga's Lookouts ended 11 years of frustration and Atlanta boy Bobby Willis gained the revenge of a lifetime in one fell swoop Friday night.

Willis gunned his first Southern Assn. home run ever, a grand-slammer at that, to lift the Lookouts to a 14-6 victory, their first opening night triumph at Ponce de Leon Park since 1948.

The blast by Willis, which capped a seven-run first inning, salted away the decision for Red Marion's invaders against the team that gave up on him as a hitter.

Shortstop Willis' belt, a 350-foot blast over the left field fence, came at the expense of right-hander Jack Hannah, who had just relieved starter Bobby Hendley.

The big blow that saddened the crowd of 2,079 fans that came to welcome the Crackers home was the sweetest of the mere seven Willis has hit in seven professional seasons.

BOBBY WILLIS
First Southern Homer

"A lot of my Atlanta friends and home folks were in the stands, and I'd rather have hit that one here than to crack 10 in Chattanooga," grinned exuberant Willis in the shower room after the game.

Atlanta Crackers vs. Chattanooga Lookouts

Jesse OUTLAR

★ Sports Editor ★

A Plug for the Cork

When Corky Valentine waddled into the Atlanta camp this spring after talking Milwaukee into a demotion, he hinted to manager Buddy Bates that frequent pitching nominations would be appreciated.

With what amounted to a full season of rest, Valentine was ready and eager for action. He was used sparingly at Wichita last summer, a factor which prompted him to request employment in Atlanta instead of Triple-A Louisville. Corky also wanted to pitch for the home folks, for he's now a resident of Alpharetta.

Outlar

Presumably Bates took Corky at his word. He's allowed the chunky right-hander to pitch almost every night. To be precise, the Crackers had played 10 games before opening the current series with Chattanooga, and Corky has logged six relief appearances.

In fact, Corky has spent almost as much time in the Lark as chauffeur Bob Montag. In case you aren't familiar with the setup at Poncey, the Lark is used as transportation to import relief pitchers from the distant left-field bullpen to the mound. Auto salesman Montag, who used to knock pitchers out as a Cracker slugger, now drives them in.

If Valentine's cigars seem longer these days, it's only because they are. He's batting .429, pitching a 1.000. Though Corky refuses to divulge last year's record, he's already equalled his victory output at Wichita with a 2-0 chart.

In six relief hitches, Valentine has surrendered only one run in 15⅔ innings. He has performed in three of the five Cracker triumphs. Rookie Bobby Hendley, only Cracker to go the route, allowed Memphis only one run in two games, to assure Corky two off nights.

—He's a Pilot Off the Diamond

If you press the loquacious Valentine, he'll discuss his pitching achievements. However, he much prefers to talk about batting. He unloaded two "fierce" doubles in the 13-3 shellacking of Memphis Thursday night, and he has volunteered his services as a pinch-hitter on the nights he isn't pitching.

Bates suggested during the spring seminar in Jacksonville that Valentine would be a valuable man to have around this summer. In addition to pitching, Buddy noted that Corky would be able to give the young pitchers pointers.

Perhaps we should say the inexperienced hurlers, for Valentine does not react kindly to references that he is not young. He reminds one and all that he's a mere youngster of 29 himself, who just happened to get an early start in baseball life.

And indeed he did. He was only 18 when he broke in as a seven-game winner at Muncie, Ind., in the Ohio-Indiana League. By his 23rd birthday he had achieved major league prominence as a dozen-game winner for Cincinnati. Unfortunately, Corky's fling in the majors didn't last another year, for reasons he still isn't able to explain.

Corky, of course, is no stranger in Atlanta, having contributed generously to two Cracker pennant chests. He won 16 games for Clyde King's 1956 champs, recorded 10 victories for Bates' 1957 titlists.

He's also a familiar figure at the airport, for flying is his hobby. One-trip passengers, however, have reported that Valentine is far more effective on the mound than in the cockpit.

Valentine is the life of the party when the Crackers congregate in the clubhouse, on a bus, train or plane during off hours. He's a good morale man, particularly good for Bates' morale this season.

—Crax Quarterbacks Are Scoring

He's in remarkably fine shape for a fat man, rather a man who looks fat. He lodges strong protests when baseball authors refer to him as the chunky right-hander. Despite a sore arm, he's off to a flying start this year.

Valentine and Hendley, the colossal 19-year-old southpaw rookie, are the only hurlers who have earned applause from Bates thus far.

But the Cracker boss was in a chipper mood after returning from a 2-1 invasion of Shreveport and Memphis. Rain kept Valentine and the Crackers inactive three nights.

Em Lindbeck, who used to quarterback for Illinois, has been making some fine runs for the Crackers. The rookie outfielder is clubbing away at a .571 clip, sufficient to oust New Orleans' Billy Reynolds for the Southern bat lead. However, Lindbeck hasn't been to bat often enough to claim the official honor.

Larry Click, who first visited Atlanta as a quarterback for Southern Methodist, has also been swinging what Mr. Bear Bryant would call a hard-nose bat. Click is mauling a lilting .448, and observers say he looks right at home in center field. George Holder, who hasn't hit for average (.233) is the early RBI leader with 11. He delivered the first homer of his career in Memphis, a grand-slammer.

"Though our pitching hasn't been steady, we have a much better club right now than we did at this stage the previous two years," Bates said before Friday's duel with Chattanooga. "You're never satisfied in this game, but I'm not complaining."

And no one has heard Valentine complaining about inactivity.

Bartzen, Candy Continue March

Woodcock Tumbles Grant In Atlanta Invitational

By MICKEY LOGUE

Aroused underdogs kept Atlanta Invitational tennis customers looking for the upset that never came in Friday's quarterfinals at Bitsy Grant Center.

Instead, favorites Tut Bartzen, Don Candy, Warren Woodcock and Wade Herren all advanced without losing a set.

Bartzen overhauled Ned Neely, 7-5, 6-1; Candy staved off Bob Nichols, 6-4, 7-6; Woodcock strafed Bitsy Grant, 6-0, 6-1, and Herren repulsed Fred Mohr, 7-5, 8-6.

Candy and Herren were pressed harder than the scores indicate, and Bartzen had his deadly left hand full for a set.

Georgia Tech's Neely first forced the sun-bathed congregation, and top-ranked Bartzen, to take notice by powering into a 5-4 opening set lead.

At this juncture, however, the methodical Texan got his poisonous passing game in the groove, and, like a long-playing record, spun out nine straight victories to win the match.

Herren, No. 1 Southern singles player, arrived from Birmingham just in time to become the No. 2 player on court No. 3. After tying 5-5 before losing the first set, 7-5, German-bred Fred Mohr led the second 6-5, and owned double match point and the service.

Then Herren, able editor of the lively new monthly publication, "Southern Tennis," rallied to prevail, 8-6.

Australia's Candy, first seeded foreigner, almost found the net too high and Nichols too sharp. After capturing the first set in fairly routine fashion, Candy rallied to break a 5-5 deadlock in the second.

Trailing 5-4 and 30-15 in the second set, Nichols, another of Coach Earle Bortell's Techmen, whipped a couple of winners past Candy from deep backcourt to prolong the match.

Candy's Australian countryman Woodcock furnished the day's most formidable tennis in easily defeating Grant, 6-0, 6-1. Grant found the 26 years he had to spot the likeable 22-year-old a few too many, and the good bounces that

Rallying Jordan Decisions Akins

Champion's Margin Slim As Virgil Fades Late

ST. LOUIS (AP)—World welterweight champion Don Jordan, stunned in the second round, rallied viciously to score a unanimous 15-round decision over ex-champ Virgil Akins and retain his title in a bruising rematch Friday night.

Akins, disappointing a home crowd, twice buckled Jordan's knees in the second round and then succumbed to the swift attack of the youthful Los Angeles champion, making his first title defense.

A Kiel Auditorium crowd booed lustily at the finish of the match which had marked similarity to the Dec. 5 match in Los Angeles when Jordan dethroned Akins over the 15-round route.

Referee Harry Kessler called it the closest, voting for the 24-year-old Jordan, 70-68, under the five-point must scoring system. Judge Fred Connell called it for Jordan 70-66 and Judge Howard Hess voted for the champ 71-68. The AP card had Jordan winning 71-65.

Akins started as though he meant to make short work of the agile Jordan. He banged away with sizzling body shots in the first round.

Then, in the second, Akins exploded a right to the chin which buckled Jordan's knees. With the crowd roaring in anticipation of a knockout, Akins whistled another right to the chin which shook the champion.

Akins continued his furious attack in the third round, but then slowly ran out of gas.

Jordan, bleeding at the nose as the third round ended, began to bang away with accurate left-right combinations.

The pace had slowed both fighters considerably by the fifth, but the younger Jordan had much more stamina than the 31-year-old Akins.

Sports writers were barred from Akins dressing room for more than 20 minutes because of a surprise move by the Internal Revenue Department in tying up Akins' purse. The government claims the ex-champ owes $22,599 in back taxes.

In his dressing room, Jordan said he had fought with a badly bruised right hand after the second round. He was to be taken to a hospital for examination of the injury. Jordan said the injury stung him throughout the fight, but not enough to make him quit.

Mathews and Braves Nab Slugfest, 10-7

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eddie Mathews banged his fifth grand slam homer as a major leaguer, plus another home run, as the Milwaukee Braves took a slugging match from Cincinnati 10-7 Friday night.

The Reds, who have averaged seven runs a game, but have won only three of their last eight, kept the issue in doubt throughout, but Mathews circuit smash with the bases loaded was the clincher for the Braves.

Redleg outfielder Gus Bell also hit two homers—including one in the ninth inning—but reliever Don McMahon got the next two Reds on easy outs to end the game.

Joey Jay, who lasted until the seventh inning, took the victory in his first start of the season.

A 13-hit Milwaukee attack, including four homers, boomed against six Cincinnati pitchers. Starter Newcombe took the loss, his third against no victories.

Newcombe collapsed in the fourth when Mathews led off with a homer. After the next two Braves were nabbed easily, Joe Adcock banged his first home run of the season. An error, single and a walk jammed the bases and Orlando Pena took over.

Jack Hennemier Quits Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Jack Hennemier, who as line coach helped develop the University of Maryland into a football power, announced Friday he was quitting the game.

Hennemier, who coached since his graduation from Duke in 1936, said he had accepted a job as administrative officer with an engineering and surveying firm in nearby Hyattsville, Md.

144 Coaches Hear Tips on Offense

Offense held the rostrum Friday as 144 Georgia high school coaches took notes during opening lectures of the first annual Georgia Tech football clinic.

Head Coach Bobby Dodd introduced the program with a review of theories and fundamentals of offense. He was followed by Jack Griffin, who spoke on overall offense; Whitey Urban, line play, and Charlie Tate, backfield play.

First day of the clinic was adjourned Friday night after trainer Buck Andel's discussion of "Use of Drugs in Athletics." Andel said modern drugs and chemicals sometimes bring miraculous recoveries of athletic injuries.

Saturday morning at 9 is the hour of defense at Tech. Ray Graves leads off with overall play, to be followed by talks on pass defense and drills by Lew Woodruff, training and signal calling by Dick Inman and end and corner play by Tonto Coleman.

The two-day clinic concludes with a buffet Saturday at 12:30. Since there were 278 registered for the football classes, some 100 or more are expected to join those already present for Saturday's sessions.

After the buffet, coaches will adjourn to Grant Field for a 3 p.m. Georgia Tech spring scrimmage.

Three names were added to the injury list Friday. Tackle Ed Nutting, halfback Cal James and end Gerald Burch have been counted out of the family battle by Dodd. Nutting suffered a pulled groin muscle in Thursday's scrimmage. A leg cut sidelines James while a knee bruse keeps Burch from contact work until next week.

Saturday's scrimmage will be next to last before next week's annual T-Night game on Grant Field.

Cats Cash Blemker Wildness Into 4-1 Victory Over Tech

Cager Parsons Belts Homer

By AL THOMY

A band of Kentucky opportunists took advantage of Bud Blemker's brief wild streak to hand the Georgia Tech ace his first defeat of the season, 4-1, in a SEC game here Friday afternoon.

Blemker, holder of six straight decisions before Friday, dug his own pitfall by walking in two and forcing another across with a hit batsman in a three-run Kentucky third inning.

Wildcat shortstop Dickie Parsons applied the clincher with a 360-foot home run in the top of the eighth.

While Blemker was having control problems, Kentucky righthander Joe Dawson methodically retired the Jackets inning-after-inning, allowing a total of six hits and never over one a round. An unearned Tech run in the first failed to shake him.

For Harry Lancaster's Kentuckians, it was a step forward in a program to rebuild baseball in the shadow of the nation's basketball capital.

The decision started here three years ago, according to Lancaster. "We lost a one-sided game and the Atlanta press wasn't too kind," he laughed. "So I went back to Kentucky and told 'em we would have to go out and get some baseball players. That, we're in the process of doing now."

Friday's game still had a basketball flavor. Parsons, the little guard who started many games for Adolph Rupp, was instrumental in ending Blemker's winning streak. He had three singles and, of course, the booming home run. It was the second meeting of the two this season. Earlier they were foes at Alexander Memorial . . . and Kentucky won that one, too.

For Tech, basketball sophomore Roger Kaiser was chief antagonist with a double and single.

Once the pushover of the SEC, Kentucky stands handsomely in second place of the Eastern Division, a real threat to uncrown the powerful Gators of Florida. Tech fell to third on Friday's result, but has a chance to regain ground in Saturday's doubleheader with the Cats.

Won-loss records for leaders read: Florida 4-1, Kentucky 6-2, Tech 5-3.

Blemker's downfall came in the disastrous third. After Dawson walked, Parsons and Bill Carder came through with singles, Carder's on a bunt which rolled unattended when third baseman Bud Abate broke for the bag thinking the steal was on.

Dawson Spreads Hits to Tech

Ronald Bertsch, a .422 hitter, took a called third strike, but Blemker hit Jerry Sharpe to force in a run. Robert Linkner popped to short before walks to Doug Shively and Mickey Conner forced in two more.

Tech had gone ahead 1-0 in the first on walks to Butch Dastague and Doug Veazey, two groundouts and Parsons' miscue of Kaiser's ground ball.

Kaiser led off the fourth with a double but never advanced as Dawson found the right pitch for every challenge. Though far off Blemker's 13-strikeout mark, he nonetheless was unspectacularly consistent.

Coach Joe Pittard announced he would send lefty Eddie Chambless (2-1) and right-hander Jimmy Nelson (0-1) in Saturday's doubleheader, and Lancaster said he would counter with Jerry Sharpe (4-0) and Jim Host (2-4).

BIDDING FOR DERBY

UNBEATEN SILVER SPOON ENTERS STEPPING STONE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Silver Spoon, the unbeaten filly that won the Santa Anita Derby, risks a perfect record and gets a chance to qualify for the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs Saturday in the $5,000 Stepping Stone purse.

Only one filly ever has won the Kentucky Derby, but if Silver Spoon turns in a good effort against such outstanding Derby candidates as Easy Spur, Sword Dancer and On-And-On she probably will try to become the second a week later.

Torocuik, Die Hard and Mosby complete the field in the seven entrants eligible for the Rose Run.

Owner C. V. Whitney, son of Harry Payne Whitney whose Regreat won the Kentucky Derby in 1915, and trainer Bob Wheeler will decide Silver Spoon's future after the race. She also is eligible for the Kentucky Oaks to be run the day before the Kentucky Derby.

Ray York, her regular rider, will handle the brilliant daughter of Citation, carrying 117 pounds in the seven-furlong sprint.

Willie Shoemaker, with a decision of his own to make shortly, rides Sword Dancer for the Brookmeade Stable under 122 pounds.

The national riding champion must choose between Tomy Lee, with whom he won the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland Thursday, and Sword Dancer for the Derby.

Delock Picks Up Second; Big Third Frame Wins

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vic drove in five runs with a double and a homer Friday night as he led the Boston Red Sox to a 7-2 victory over the Washington Senators.

Ike Delock, pitching a six-hitter, whipped Washington for the second time this season and the eighth straight time since May 12 1957.

Vito Valentinetti, the Senators' starting pitcher, was chased in a five-run third inning and was charged with the defeat.

Souchak Pops Par, Leads Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Mike Souchak fired his second sub-par round of golf Friday, a 2-under-par 70, to stretch his lead to 4 strokes at the midway mark of the $46,200 Tournament of Champions.

Husky Mike, one of the only five professionals to master par on a blustry but warm afternoon, toured the Desert Inn Country Club's 7,073-yard, par 36-36—72 course in 35-35—70.

It gave him a commanding 36-hole score of 136.

Deadlockd at 140 were Art Wall Jr., whose 68 was the low for the day; Julius Boros with a 70, John McMullun, 72, and Ernie Vossler, 71.

Alone at 142 was long hitting George Bayer with a 70, while Gene Littler, three times winner and the pre-tournament favorite, shot a 72 for a tie at 143 with Arnold Palmer, who had a 73.

Souchak started the round with a two-stroke lead over McMullin off Mike's sensational 66 yesterday, while Vossler and Peter Cooper were tied at 69. Cooper fell far back with a 77 for 146.

Wiffi Smith Leads Rawls

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Stocky Wiffi Smith, sank five birdies, and shot a 68, four under men's par, Friday to take a 3-stroke lead in the first round of the $6,000 Peach Blossom-Betsy Rawls Golf Tournament.

Betsy, a Spartanburg girl who twice has won the tourney named for her, was in second place with a 71. Betsy was hampered by putting trouble.

Tied with 73s were Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga.; Marilynn Smith of French Lick, Ind. and Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, Ga.

PREP BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Robinson Wins No-Hitter, 2-0; Homer's Single Stuns Murphy

By PAUL ATKINSON

Headland right-hander Robby Robinson, a slim 5-11, 156-pounder, was one man away from prep pitching imortality Friday. As it was, he settled for a 2-0, no-hitter at Fairburn's expense in a 4-AA baseball game.

Robinson struck out eight, didn't walk a man and appeared not like the sophomore he is. Only one man reached base on him, and he was there because of an error.

Headland won it in the fifth on two runs, and Robinson scored the first after singling. He also had a double.

Meanwhile, 3-AAA East tightened into a two-way deadlock as North Fulton stunned Murphy, 4-3. Again it was a hitting pitcher, Homer Martin, who did the trick. His third-inning single plated two runs and collared left-hander Bobby Dalgleish with his first loss. Idle Roosevelt slipped into a 9-4 won-lost snarl with Murphy, while Grady is only one-half game out and North Fulton one game back.

Athens and Griffin solidified their spots atop 4-AAA North and South. Athens rapped Cherokee, 8-4, on Ralph Bray's three-run homer to move out front of runnerup Smyrna one full game, while Griffin beat Marist, 5-2, knocking the Cadets back into a second-place tie with Decatur, both one and one-half games out. Decatur slapped Druid Hills, 13-4, and Marietta outlasted Sprayberry, 7-5.

Newton County clinched the 4-AA East championship by rattling Chamblee, 6-0, behind Larry Parnell's three-hitter. It was Parnell's second whitewashing of Chamblee.

Elsewhere in 4-AA, Hapeville pounded Sandy Springs, 17-2, on Richard Bradley's two-hitter; Westminster zeroed South Cobb, 1-0, on Walter Ratchford's three-hitter, and Gray Skelton's RBI single; College Park toppled Newnan, 5-2, as Tommy Fields surrendered only two hits and brought his three-game hit-allowed total to a meager five; and Briarcliff beat Pope Pius X on Pat Battle's five-hitter, 4-3.

In 4-B Area 1, Tucker rocked Rockdale County, 18-0, as Larry Manus smashed two homers, one with the sacks jammed. It was Tucker's third shutout this week and was credited to Jimmy Wilson, though Jack Carter relieved in the sixth.

Marist's Lou Truemper and Griffin's Jimmy Gordham matched 13-strikeout games, but Gus Powell whacked across four runs for Griffin to decide it. His three-run triple won it in the first inning.

Willis-Led Lookouts Club Crackers, 14-6

smashed off Hannah, it was the sock that pinned defeat on 19-year-old Hendley. It was his first after two sensational route-going victories over Memphis.

The cellar-dwelling Lookouts kayoed the Macon, Ga., lefthander, who allowed the Chicks only one run in 18 innings, before he got the second man out in the first frame.

The troops from up Rock City way shot down the Crackers with a 14-hit salvo and handed them the worst defeat of the year one day after they won their most smashing victory.

Jim Kaat, up from Missoula, Mont., in the Class C Pioneer League, stymied the home nine on five hits for seven scoreless innings. The Crackers then came to life to tally all their runs in the final two frames.

A four-run eighth inning, highlighted by Emil Panko's fourth homer, ended Kaat's dreams of a shutout. But Willis and the Lookouts had given the Crackers nightmares and Kaat his first triumph against two defeats long before that.

Atlantan Marion's Lookouts didn't let up after that horrendous first frame. They continued to maltreat Hendley's successors—Hannah, Ed Banach, and Wendy Doss.

A double by Ray Dabek, singles by Vern Morgan and Dick Harris cost Hannah and Doss dearly as the merry Marionmen tacked on three counters in the fifth.

Doss was victimized for three unearned tallies in the seventh and eighth, then tagged for a legitimate counter in the ninth when Dan Dobbek whaled a solo homer over the rightfield tin.

Back-to-back doubles by Elvis Moss and pinch-hitting Bob Uecker and Maury Lerner's second single in the ninth served only to up the Atlanta run total by two, and provide some going-home memories for the fans.

They talk some about Panko's three-run belt, but most of the conversation was about the hour of glory for Willis, who didn't hit a homer for Atlanta in 1955 or 1956—or Chattanooga in 1958.

Willis had quite a supporting cast to set up his dramatic moment. For he never would have come to bat in that inning except for a walk, hit batsman and singles by Jimmie Hall, Tommy Brown, Dabek and Morgan.

But Saturday is another night. And the Crackers will start gunning for revenge at 7:45 with righthander Ross Carter on the mound. Marion's plans for two straight conquests will ride with either righthander Bob Saban or lefty Ralph Lumenti.

Lakewood Meets Ola

The Lakewood Cardinals will play Ola at Ola at 3:30 Saturday afternoon, barring rain that already has brought on two postponements of the game. The Cards will meet at Fulton High at one o'clock.

CHICAGO (AP)—The San Francisco Giants, kept in the running on a perfect throw to home plate by Felipe Alou which cut off what would have been the winning run, scored a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday on Daryl Spencer's 11th-inning sacrifice fly.

SINCLAIR'S WHITE BASS MADE FISH FRY OF PICTURE TRIP

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Constitution Outdoor Columnist

Probably one of the most fascinating angles to this fishing business is that whether you are in briny water or fresh, whether you try for mammoth marlin or puny pumpkin seeds, what you can most of all expect is the unexpected.

Charlie Elliott

I'm sure no one ever had a more classic example of that truism than Phil Boykin and I got Thursday afternoon at Sinclair Lake, between Eatonton and Milledgeville, in middle Georgia.

Sinclair has provided some of my finest fishing hours. Because it has been in its prime for three or four years, the lake is a perfect spot for trying new baits and new twists to the old methods of angling.

Phil and I went down to complete a series of photographs for a story. We started the pictures last summer, then unfortunately ran into a school of lunker bass, and promptly forgot all about photography, until it was so dark that I had to feel to find my camera.

If you know what pictures you want, it doesn't take long to point the camera and press the button that lets about 1/100ths of a second of light touch the sensitive film. We were on the lake early enough so that after we had completed that 1/100ths second chore, we could spend the remaining 11 hours, 59 minutes and 59 59/100ths of a second fishing.

Phil and I cruised all the old favorite spots, looking for largemouth bass. The lake is old enough now to have some real lunkers in it. We've taken them to around 8 pounds, but with the amount of food, good water temperatures and other favorable factors, someone should come out of the lake this summer with a bass twice that size.

Thursday, with the exception of a very pleasant lunch hour ashore with Betty and Bill Street and Jack Roach, we tried every trick we knew, on most of the productive points and shore lines where we had caught bass before, and we simply couldn't sell one of our baits to largemouth of any size.

We were trolling bombers across one of the points when Phil's lure hung on a bush in the shallow water. I turned back to retrieve it, jerked it off the underwater snag with my fingers and as it came free, something hit the bomber. I released the line and Phil landed a fish that bugged my eyes. It was a white bass, known in the parlance of hook-and-liners throughout its range as a "striper." This small fresh water species doesn't grow much larger than around 3 pounds, but it is a favorite of anglers throughout the length and breadth of its range, which generally is the Great Lakes region and upper Mississippi Valley.

These fish are usually found in sizeable schools, so I switched on my depth finder, located the exact spot where we had crossed the submerged point, and put our anchor down gently. I dug in my tackle box for small dollfly jigs, both white and yellow. The jigs are favorites of most fishermen who try for the stripers. For almost two hours the school of white bass kept us busy—with Phil doing most of the catching, and with me stringing and complaining because he was pulling them in so fast, I didn't have time to do any casting on my own.

We kept 20 fish, the largest of which we estimated at just under 2 pounds. Harry Williams, at Bass boat house, told us we had brought in the first string of stripers to come out of the lake since the fish were planted as fingerlings by the Game and Fish Commission in February, 1957.

On light tackle, the scrappy little fish is a tough competitor for a strand of monofilament, and certainly made us forget our quest for largemouths. It was the first white bass I had seen at Sinclair, but the species seem to be definitely established there, and I predict a lot of action for a lot of anglers who concentrate their activities on this brand-new finny resident of the lake.

Naylor Stone Dies Of Cancer at 62

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Naylor Stone, sports editor of the Birmingham Post-Herald, died at his home here Friday of cancer. He was 62.

Stone learned 15 months ago that he had cancer. But he continued to come to the office and write his daily column. Even after the disease confined him to his home, he continued writing.

Stone, at one time a close friend of Damon Runyon, found it hard to believe that he would die of cancer. His doctors told him in January, 1958, that he would live about six months more.

But this was not exactly a new experience to Stone. For in 1949 he suffered a heart attack. He was in bed for 90 days.

"They told me then I'd never make it," Stone said.

And when he was stricken with cancer, and said sometimes it hurt, he added almost apologetically: "I'm not going to let it get me down. I'm not going to give up."

He continued to report to his desk until only a few weeks ago. He sometimes grinned, but not so frequently, and said slyly "six months, they said."

His last column appeared April 15. It was his 62nd birthday. He told a friend he would only rest a little before he wrote another one.

Stone's name is William Naylor, but Damon Runyon changed that. Stone used to sign his column Bill Stone.

"You'll never get anywhere with such a name as that," Runyon told him. "You'll have to sign it Naylor. Look at me. Do you think I'd get anywhere if I signed my name James Runyon?"

And so, it became Naylor Stone, and has been since.

In 1926 he became sports editor of Scripps-Howard's Press Scimitar at Memphis. Six years later he became executive sports editor of the Cleveland Press.

Stone was born in Cairo, Ill., the son of a railroad man. He is the author of a book, "Coach Tommy of the Crimson Tide," the story of the late Frank Thomas of Alabama.

Bartzen Defeats Ned Neely

might have made it closer didn't materialize for Bitsy.

Woodcock challenges Bartzen, fourth-ranked nationally, in Saturday's 1 p.m. opener. Herren plays Candy at 3.

With all of the local horses out of the singles race, home town interest will focus on the doubles.

Atlantans Frank Willett and Howard McCall meet Grant and Woodcock at 4:30, and Atlantan Larry Shippey and Herren tackle top-seeded Bartzen and Candy at 5.

The Bartzen-Candy combo was pushed into extra innings by the Tech team of Neely and Thompson. Despite the particularly impressive maneuvers by Thompson, Bartzen-Candy won, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Following an extended 6-4, 6-8, 10-8 morning decision over Glenn Dudley and Jim O'Callaghan, Nichols and Sonny Mullis bowed to Shippey-Herren, 6-2, 6-4.

University of Georgia's Lindsey Hopkins and John Foster led early against Grant-Woodcock, but eventually fell, 8-6, 6-1. Although playing together for the first time, the victors formed a punishing combination.

In the day's lone opening round singles match, Mohr required 12 set points in defeating Thompson, 6-1, 6-3.

Magazine duties had prevented Herren's playing much pre-Invitational tennis this spring. "I usually have to play a couple of matches to get warmed up in a tournament," he said. "But I nearly didn't last that long."

Penrose Ousted in North-South

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus out-scrambled Bob Cochran, 2-up, and genial Gene Andrews out-steadied Jack Penrose 3-2 Friday to win their North and South Amateur Golf Tournament semifinals matches.

They meet for the title over 36 holes Saturday.

Nicklaus, 19-year-old member of the U.S. Walker Cup team from Columbus, Ohio, battled a hook in the early stages, but compensated with some skillful putting to save several holes. He finally went ahead to stay by winning the 12th and 13th holes.

Cochran, 46-year-old St. Louis paper company salesman, carried him to the last hole, which Jack won with a par four.

Andrews, 45, a first-time starter here, from Pacific Palisades, Calif., was off and running in a hurry against fellow insurance man Penrose, 44, from Miami, Fla.

McDonald Car Wins

Eddie McDonald's car won the 25-lap feature race for modified stocks at the Peach Bowl Friday night. But Eddie wasn't in it.

It seems the Columbus driver brought two vehicles to the races and finished third in one of them. Charley Mincey took first in the other.

25-lap feature: Charlie Mincey, Katron Sosebee, Eddie McDonald; trophy dash—Bud Lunsford, Mincey; first heat—J. C. Hendrix, K. Sosebee, Lunsford; second heat—Bill Yancey, Mincey, Alvin Powers; third heat—Charlie Padgett, Gerald Duke, Bill Hamby; 20-lap go-cart feature—Sam Peoples.

Decatur LLs Launch Slate

Decatur American Little League opens 1959 play Saturday with three games slated at Glen Lake Park.

The Senators play the Indians at 11 a.m., the Cubs test the Braves at 2:30 p.m. and the defending champ Red Sox tangle with the Tigers at 4:30.

Lee, Bedo Culberson Fire 68s in Coosa Open Tuneups

Stamps Team Takes Pro-Am

Special to The Constitution

ROME—Cedartown pro Emory Lee and Rome amateur Bedo Culberson tuned up for the 13th annual Coosa Open with three-under par 68s in a pro-am here Friday.

But neither of the low firers was a member of the winning team, that honor going to a Dalton contingent captained by pro Jim Stamps but led by the 69 of Bo Medders.

Stamps, Medders, Jack Bandy and Jim Purvis combined for a best-ball 61, which was two strokes better than the 63-shooting Atlanta team of pro Jim Yates, Gene Dahlbender, Jimmy Farr and Wally Cochran.

Four teams were knotted for third place with 64s. They included the Atlanta foursome of pro Pete Cole, Wilson Brooks, Lester Kelly and Paul Shephered; a second Stamps team of Clay Dykes, Rhea Richardson and Bob Shaw; a Rome trio of Bert Seagraves, Merrill Ewing and Rudolph Clark that was headed by Lanett, Ala., pro Dick Cline; and a Cedartown quartet of pro Lee and amateurs Lamar Gammage, James Keel and Bill Harris.

Most of the amateurs in the pro-am used Friday's scores to qualify for the championship flight of the Coosa Open which gets under way Saturday with 18 holes, followed by 36 Sunday.

Culberson, of course, picked up the medal with his 68. Then came Medders' 69 and 70s by Kelly and Rockmart's James Strange. Dahlbender owned a par-matching 71.

Wtih 74 the cutoff point, 18 amateurs slipped under the wire and will be joined by 17 professionals in the championship flight.

Talmadge Suggests Unit System Change

By ALBERT RILEY
Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Sen. Talmadge suggested Friday it may be wise for Georgia's big city counties to be given more unit votes in order to save the county unit system from overthrow by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Talmadge did not flatly advocate such a course, in a cautiously worded suggestion that the State Legislature "study" the problem.

But the implication was clear that the senator feels such a modification of the county unit system may well be necessary to "preserve and protect" it from future court action.

Talmadge made this comment in a television program beamed from Washington by 17 stations in Georgia in what appeared to be an attempt to clarify his position on the unit system.

FEARS A LOSS

The junior senator from Georgia declared he is for the unit system "absolutely and unreservedly" as a protection for the small counties. But he also warned it would be short-sighted for the system's supporters to sit idly by and lose it through inaction.

The last test case of the unit system before the U.S. Supreme Court resulted last year in the system being upheld by only a 5-to-4 decision, Talmadge pointed out. Since that time, one of the justices who voted to uphold the system has retired and another probably will retire soon.

A more liberal court, Talmadge commented, could well destroy the system in some future case.

The senator said, "It is not my purpose to attempt to make suggestions to either the governor or the General Assembly."

SUGGESTED REVISION

However, he noted there have been many newspaper headlines, stories, editorials and cartoons purporting to interpret comment he made recently about the unit system in another television appearance.

In that unrehearsed appearance, Talmadge in reply to a question, said he thought the Legislature might well study population shifts in the state and that some readjustment in the system might be wise.

"Since the question has been raised and now has become a matter of general concern," Talmadge said Friday, "It is my considered opinion it would be wise for an appropriate committee of the Legislature:

"1. To study such action as may be necessary best to protect the county unit system from destruction at the hands of the Supreme Court;

"2. To study whether, in the light of the present serious threats to the system, a few of the most populous counties of the states should be granted a reasonable increase in unit votes to more nearly reflect current population trends."

FOR PRESERVING SYSTEM

Talmadge said this would, in his opinion, help preserve and protect the system.

"Its preservation is something to which all of us must give our best thoughts. It would be short-sighted indeed, for us to sit around and lose the system due to our failure to do everything necessary to protect and preserve it.

"In so doing, the General Assembly should make absolutely certain that no county's unit vote or representation would be reduced and that nothing would be done that would shift the present balance of political power which assures that diffusion of political initiative and stops political machines at the county line."

Oglethorpe Honors Its Top Students

Superior scholarship and leadership at Oglethorpe University were recognized at the university's first annual Honors Day.

Seniors Sydney Mobley of Powder Springs, Joe T. Green of Forest Park and Billy W. Carter of Atlanta carried off most of the awards.

Miss Mobley received the Sally Hull Weltner Award for Scholarship and the James Edward Oglethorpe Award for Merit.

Green won the Faculty Scholarship Award and the LeConte Honorary Science Society Award.

Carter won the James Edward Oglethorpe Award for Merit and the David Hesse Memorial Award for excellence in athletics.

Other award winners:

Duchess Club Award for Freshmen; Charlotte Shirah, Temple; Board's Head Award for Freshmen; Jay Rowland, Gainesville, Fla.; Parker Prize in Law, Hugo S. Hammond, Cumming; MacConnell Award, William B. Christian, Jacksonville, Fla.; Chemical Rubber Company Award, Charles T. Ingram, Ball Ground; Oglethorpe Players Dramatic Awards, Anna Hamilton, Meridian, Miss.; Tony Paredes, Orlando, Fla.; Harris Kandel, Savannah, and Marc Weinberg, New York City.

"The true honor student," said Professor Wendell H. Brown, "is one who not only brings honor to himself but honor to all humanity." Brown, chairman of Oglethorpe's Division of Human Understanding, delivered the Honors Day address.

Atlanta Transit Cited for Safety

The Atlanta Transit System Thursday received a special citation from the American Transit Assn. for "outstanding safety improvement in 1958."

John Gerson, vice president and general manager of the Atlanta system, was presented the award in St. Louis at a convention of the transit association.

Atlanta Transit, competing with U.S. and Canadian companies serving urban populations of 500,000 to 1,000,000, won the safety citation by recording the greatest reduction in traffic and passenger accidents during 1958.

The Atlanta firm's traffic safety record last year improved 20 per cent over 1957 and its passenger safety record improved 9 per cent.

Cast Your Worries On Savior

QUESTION: I worry a great deal, and I know it is a concern to all my loved ones. I wonder if you can help me?—G. K.

ANSWER: God has made you a responsible person and has entrusted to your care certain work. There are many things you can do nothing about, but there is nothing God cannot do. I would suggest that you first make sure that you have faithfully discharged your own responsibility. When you have done so, you can then commit the outcome to God. Remember the Bible says, "Casting all your care (anxiety) upon Him for He careth for you." As for the multitude of things over which you have no control, you can be sure that insofar as they concern you at all, they are in His power. Jesus said: "Take no thought for the morrow," for He knew well that there were many who would do just what you are doing.

It is possible your worry grows out of a knowledge that all is not right with God. This is so general a problem that I suggest it to you. Trust in Christ for salvation, yield yourself to God, and then commit every problem to Him for He is able to solve your many problems.

Massey Race For Party Post Isn't Expected

Sources close to State Secretary of Commerce Abit Massey denied a report Thursday that Massey would be a candidate for president of the Georgia Young Democrats at their state convention in Atlanta May 9.

They said Massey's heavy burden of duties at the Capitol would prohibit his candidacy.

However it was reported reliably that a growing number of Massey's friends and fellow Young Democrats are preparing to nominate him for the less time-consuming job of national committeeman and at the same time will seek the state presidency.

Both Massey and State Rep. Carl Barrett were appointed last October to the Democratic State Executive Committee by Gov. Vandiver. Barrett is state treasurer for the Young Democrats.

write yourself a loan just by writing a check!

Ask "Mr. First" for his new

CHECK CREDIT PLAN

Now with one sweep of your pen, you can actually write yourself a loan anytime you wish! You enjoy the security of having money available anytime you need it . . . for emergencies, medical expenses, taxes.
You enjoy the freedom of having money available anytime you want it . . . for appliances, home improvements, vacations. The money's in your pocket . . . there's no need to apply for new loans with First National's exclusive Check Credit Plan!

It's this simple: you and "Mr. First" decide how much credit you want, from $250 to $5,000. You fill out just one application form, no more. When it's approved, you get a supply of checks. Then you write as many as you want, within your maximum. Your payments are 1/18th of the amount of your credit maximum. You don't pay a penny, of course, until you spend one.

Example: a maximum Check Credit of $900 would mean monthly payments of $50 (1/18th of your maximum). A Check Credit of $450 would mean payments of $25 per month. You pay only until the checks you have written are paid off, and you may write as many more as you wish at any time, as long as the total stays within your maximum.

See "Mr. First" at any of the eleven convenient First National Bank offices today. Ask for an application for Check Credit, or a free booklet explaining all details. Don't put off the security and convenience you get only from First National's Check Credit Plan!

"COOL CATS" WEAR GARBAGE CAN HEADGEAR IN "ARCHY AND MEHITABEL" BALLET
From Left, Betty Hunter, June Rose, Lois Cohen, Bunny Gloub and Iris Hensley, Center

There's Really a Story Behind All Those Leaps and Runs in a Ballet

By YOLANDE GWIN

Pretend you are in the audience watching a ballet performance. You clap at the right times, you try to read (in the dark) the information listed in the program to figure what it's all about, since nobody in the cast talks, they just leap and run here and there and wave chiffon scarves.

Some people never think about how all this is planned to really mean something and tell a story. The costumes and especially the headgear always come in for their share of comment.

Down in Miami today, a lot of Floridians and some tourists will be gaping at how an Atlanta group will be interpreting the Don Marquis story of "Archy and Mehitabel," that famous cockroach and cat which have outlived many human characters.

CIVIC GROUP

The Atlanta Concert Group, a nonprofit civic organization formed about three years ago, will present the "Archy and Mehitabel" ballet at the Southeastern Regional Ballet Festival to be presented today in the Dade County auditorium in Miami.

The appearance in Miami of the Atlanta dancers is a distinct compliment as well as recognition of their talents. They got the nod of approval to appear in the festival—along with seven others from throughout the Southeast—by none other than the master himself—Ted Shawn. Mr. Shawn was here in the late winter and from the varied repertoire of the group he chose the ballet based on the Don Marquis story.

The Atlanta group—17 in all—chartered a bus for the Miami trip and during the final rehearsal some of the vital statistics on how a ballet is 'born" were gathered.

THE STORY

The choreography (that's the story) was done by Mrs. Ruth Mitchell Kimbrell, the group director.

"Actually it all started when Ann Daniel brought the 'Archy and Mehitabel' album by Carol Channing, Eddie Bracken and David Wayne, out to the studio," she said. "I followed the story with one exception, I added a sympathetic cat to look after the neglected kittens."

The story is of a cockroach in a newspaper office who felt an irresistible compulsion to write. He wrote of his friend, Mehitabel the cat, and of her friends who roamed the alleys, led a gay, sometimes shabby life and wore delightful hats all gathered from garbage can row.

"The hats really give character to the dancers' costumes" said Mrs. Kimbrell. "They were all designed and handmade by Robert Griggs, who, by the way, dances the part of the alley cat."

"How did I think up hats for cats?" said Mr. Griggs, when questioned on the subject, "Well what would you think a cat would find in a garbage can? Some represent a fish skeleton, a ball of yarn, a bird cage, fish hooks, a dead bird and two black mice to name a few. I used two old lampshades for the bird cages."

MODERN JAZZ

The ballet which will be of the modern jazz type will have a musical score done by John Phelps and Martin Shartar and taken from the music of Duke Ellington's "Sweet Thunder" and Sir William Walton's "Facade."

The ballet cast includes Tom Moore as Archy and Ruth Mitchell as Mehitabel. Tabby cats will be Lois Cohen, Bunny Golub, Iris Hensley, Betty Hunter, June Rose, and Loretta Warren. Others as moth, firefly, kittens, grandmother cat and alley cats will be portrayed by Sunny Gruber, Bess Finch, Terry Spiegel, Mary Hill, Joyce McDaniel, Jean Rothstein, Laurie Condrey and Robert Griggs.

Mothers Club To Meet Today

Delta Sigma Phi Wives, Mothers Club will meet today at 10 a.m. at the chapter house. Roger Jacobs will address the group. Mrs. Joan A. Mann is in charge of reservations.

Mrs. Grove To Fete Daughter, Niece at Luncheon May 4

Mrs. Lon Grove has issued invitations for a luncheon on Monday, May 4, in compliment to her daughter, Mrs. Claiborne Glover Jr., the retiring president of the Junior Committee of the Atlanta Symphony Guild, and to her niece, Mrs. George L. Harris Jr., the new president of the Junior Committee.

The party will be held at the Driving Club, with guests seated in groups of eight at round tables covered with gold linen cloths. Arrangements of salmon-colored geraniums will form the central decorations.

Invited to meet the honor guests are members of the Junior Committee's retiring board who served with Mrs. Glover, and the members of the new board who will work with Mrs. Harris.

YESTERDAY WAS DREW BEATTIE'S seventh birthday, and in celebration of the occasion he wanted his entire class (first grade) at Westminster to come to lunch with him.

"Drew's idea of a jam-up luncheon menu is hotdogs, hamburgers and ice cream," laughed his mother, Mrs. George Beattie, "so I just called the chuck wagon to serve it."

To keep the young guests quiet for a brief spell after lunch, an art exhibit was held, with everyone doing a picture.

"It was a unique exhibit in that every artist won first prize," continued Mrs. Beattie. "Each guest received a pair of small magnifying glasses."

The pictures were hung around the garage just like a real exhibit. Drew inherited his father's artistic talent, so the exhibit was his idea. Later he and his guests played outdoor games.

VISITORS EXPECTED TODAY are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morast Jr. and their small daughter, Kathleen, of Columbus, who will be guests of Mrs. Morast's mother, Mrs. Richard D. King, on 28th street.

Mr. Morast will return on Sunday, but Mrs. Morast and her daughter will remain through opera with Mrs. King. Kathleen, incidentally, will celebrate her first birthday while here.

HIGH ON THE WEEK-END CALENDAR is the tea at which members of the Old Guard of the Gate City Guard will entertain following the Confederate Memorial Day Exercise at Oakland Cemetery on Sunday afternoon.

The tea will be held at the Atlanta Athletic Club from 4 to 6 o'clock.

THE CHEROKEE CLUB'S first Dogwood Queen will be crowned at the Dogwood Ball this evening, with Walter Calhoun, the club president, doing the honors.

The queen was selected by a committee, but henceforth she will be chosen by vote of the club members. Her identity will not be revealed until 9:30 this evening when Mr. Calhoun places a tiara of silver dogwood blossoms upon her pretty head. The tiara remains club property after the coronation, but the queen will receive a silver dogwood bracelet as a memento of her royal role.

The club will be lavishly decorated in dogwood boughs for the affair, which will be formal. McKendree Tucker Jr. will serve as master of ceremonies.

VACATIONING south of the border are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Timmers of 310 Pineland Rd. They are at present at Hotel Del Prado in Mexico City, but will visit Taxco and Acapulco before returning home.

MRS. JEAN RYAN of Blacksburg, Va., director of Province 24 of Delta Zeta Sorority, will speak at the annual Georgia State Day luncheon of Delta Zeta at the Coach House today at 12:30 o'clock.

Catherine Cook, president of the Atlanta Alumnae Chapter, will serve as toastmistress.

PRESIDENT NOAH LANGDALE JR. of Georgia State College and Mrs. Langdale will entertain students and faculty of the college at a tea from 3 to 5 o'clock on Sunday at their home at 3807 Tuxedo Rd.

Dean Nell H. Trotter and Dean Kenneth England will receive with Dr. and Mrs. Langdale. Members of Kappa Theta and Delta Lambda Sigma sororities will serve.

"COTTONBALL" was the intriguing title given their annual spring formal held last evening at the Biltmore by members of Pi Chapter of Kappa Alpha Delta Sorority.

Highlighting the evening's program was the tapping of new officers. After the dance a breakfast was held in the Empire Room for sorority members and their dates.

5,000 Bags of Georgia Peanuts Help Mrs. Stribling Win DAR Post

By MARIE SMITH
Former Constitution Staff Writer Now With Washington Post

WASHINGTON, D.C.—If Mrs. Thomas Earle Stribling of Atlanta gets a vote for every package of peanuts she has given out during the past week she's sure to be elected chaplain general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The former Georgia state regent came here with 5,000 packages of Georgia-grown peanuts donated by Tom Houston of Columbus, and more than 12 pounds of Georgia pecans donated by Stuckey's of Eastman, as "bait" for her campaign.

Mrs. T. Earle Stribling was elected chaplain general on the winning slate headed by Mrs. Ashmead White of Bangor, Me. The announcement of the winning ticket was made at 2:30 a.m. Friday morning in Constitution Hall. Mrs. White won by 170 votes over Mrs. Ralph Williams Newland of St. Joseph, Mich. About 2,300 ballots were cast by the delegates to the 68th Continental Congress. Mrs. Stribling was the only Georgian named to a national office.

The nuts have been passed out freely at the always-crowded campaign headquarters Mrs. Stribling shares at the Mayflower Hotel with other candidates on the slate headed by Mrs. Ashmead White of Bangor, Maine.

PASSES OUT PEANUTS

And yesterday, the Georgian was personally passing out the peanuts at the party given in her honor at the Congressional Club by three other Georgia DARs, Mrs. Phil M. Landrum, Mrs. John J. Flynt and Mrs. Hugh Peterson.

Helping her in the vote-wooing was Mrs. Thomas K. Kendrick of Columbus, Ga., her personal teller in Thursday's DAR election and Georgia's National Democratic Committeewoman who was the lone hold-out recently against holding the party's convention in California.

Mrs. Stribling is assured of Georgia's support and they boast the biggest delegation to the DAR Congress this year for many a year.

A member of the Episcopal Church, Mrs. Stribling was the first woman ever to be a member of the Diocesan Finance Committee in Georgia, and served on that committee under the leadership of three bishops.

THREE SONS

She is the mother of three sons, two of them members of the Sons of the American Revolution and one a member of the Sons of the Revolution (in New York), and three grandchildren, all members of the Children of the American Revolution.

Showing up at yesterday's party to wish her success was Rep. Iris Blitch (D-Ga) who was chatting with Georgians about the national publicity she got for renting her garage for her congressional office at home. "I don't care what they say about me outside the eighth district of Georgia," she said.

Most of the party guests wore white carnations made from facial tissues, the emblem of candidates and supporters of the White ticket. Mrs. Stribling was chuckling over the fact that one of the carnations went to the White House Monday.

AT WHITE HOUSE

She said Mrs. Owen Brewster, wife of the former senator from Maine, wore one to the luncheon Mrs. Eisenhower gave for Senate wives. The day happened to be Mrs. Brewster's 44th wedding anniversary also.

CAMPUS COMMENTS

Parents Spark Respect for Law

Georgia's teen-agers have as much, and in many cases, more respect for the law than do adults. Taking a look at their own generation, Campus Comment contributors this week admitted not all teen-agers adhere to the law or respect those who enforce it. They point out that in some cases this disrespect of law enforcement agents, in the home as well as in the public life, is justified. Students maintain that in order to teach young people a healthy respect for law and order adult leaders must first "practice what they preach."

The majority of students seem to agree that, in general, today's teen-agers show a great respect for the law. Jan Tipton, 17, Union City, asserts "Those who think that laws are made to be broken represent only a small part of the present teen-age population." Jan pointed to a town in a neighboring state as a good example of how juvenile crime problems might be solved: " . . . The town let high school students come and work in the governmental and law enforcement offices. They learned to understand and respect the laws, and in so doing, were able to set a good example for other teen-agers. If more towns and cities would provide such a program it would cut down on juvenile crime."

Andrea McLain, 17, College Park, declares the majority of teen-agers know the laws were made for their own good, they respect and help to enforce them. Andrea continues: "Some teens don't respect the laws just because they are young and independent, they feel they can do anything they please. . . . The younger the teen, the less respect he has for law. As the person matures, he begins to realize the full value of law and its importance to him and the community."

Caroline Wells, 14, ninth grade student at the Westminster School for Girls, focuses on an interesting point in this week's winning letter, and reminds adults that parents spark teens' respect for the law:

. . . Many of the teens who indulge in law-breaking have been unconsciously encouraged in their homes by parents who permit the breaking of even petty laws. In some cases law-breaking is only a part of going along with the crowd: "Everyone" cheats a little on a test once in a while. "Everyone" breaks curfew now and then.

One of the most terrible things is that all too often parents consent to their teen-agers breaking these laws. If they were always environed in a law-abiding atmosphere teens would seldom break laws. Contrary to being a goody-goody, the law-abiding teen is the good citizen of tomorrow. . . . But many times a teen is terrified that the crowd will exclude him because he won't do some of the things they do.

If only teen-agers would realize the necessity of abiding by the law in our daily life we would have less juvenile delinquency and fewer insecure young people.

Pat Ray, 18, Fairburn, declares "teens need to realize the small laws they break are also important. . . . They should lose the resentful attitudes toward the policeman, because they only do their jobs when they rebuke teens for disobedience, disrespect and even contempt of the law." Ronnie Reynolds, 18, College Park, insists "there are laws which teens do not respect because they don't think they are right. . . . Such as the curfew in most large cities. But when they become parents the teens would not like to have the law done away with, for they can then see its importance."

Boys, Girls Of Month Announced

A group of young people whose cooperative spirit, leadership abilities, consideration of fellow youths, and community service have been outstanding, this week was presented trophies as honor members of the Red Shield Boys' Club and Girls' Club.

Boy and girl of the month awards were presented by Capt. Ernest Carey, director, to Terry Hix, 13, and Elaine Fuqua, 12, the January winners; to Roger Dogen, 12 and Brenda Moreland, 13, February, and to Linda Penley, 11 and Rickey Stewart, 12, March.

Proms Worth The Expense?

The teen social whirl is in full swing, with formals planned at practically every Georgia school. Do students think such occasions are worth the personal expense involved? How much do such affairs r e a l l y mean to teen-agers? Does the majority look forward to, or dread, these events? Why?

The Constitution will pay $10 to the high school student who writes the best letter on this subject, and $1 for each additional letter used. Address entries to Young Ideas Editor; include name, address, age, school and grade. Letters must be postmarked by midnight Tuesday, April 28. Please include a glossy photo of yourself with your letter.

SOUTHWEST HIGH STUDENT WINS SCHOLARSHIP FOR PAINTING

Atlantan's Eye for Beauty Draws Art Scholarship

A handsome Atlanta youth has an eye for beauty. Real beauty. He can see loveliness where others cannot. And putting his interpretations on canvas, he creates eye-appealing scenes where, at first glance, was ugliness.

A hovel in the slum district, piles of brick and debris along the right-of-way in the expressway system's march of progress, work-worn, weary women, dirt-streaked youngsters seeking adventure in their vacant lot playgrounds, the color and gaiety of a "Day at the Fair" all have been captured by David Clark's skill with paints and brushes.

The Southwest High senior hit the art scholarship jackpot with his vivid painting a "Day at the Fair." From t h e bold strokes of his brush emerged the well-known picture of the Midway, with its sparkling lights and crowded walks, with parents struggling to keep up with their happily hysterical offspring, side-show barkers in all their glory, and the excitement of breath-taking rides on the mechanical amusements.

HELPING HAND

David's future career in the art field got a helping hand recently when Col. E. Lee Carteron, general manager of the Southeastern Fair Assn., presented the youth with the top award in the 1958 scholarships for students' contest. Limited to high school seniors who plan to continue an education in art following graduation, the scholarship program is sponsored cooperatively by the Southeastern Fair, Georgia Art Education Assn. and the State Department of Education. The scholarships are made possible through business and industry, and Mrs. Eugene Tovell, special activities director for the fair, reports that it is hoped the program can be expanded this year.

Judges for the contest included Dr. Marie Huper, Agnes Scott College; Miss Olleene Williams, State Department of Education, and Mrs. Pat Cravey, Atlanta Art Institute. In announcing the winner, judges explained that the selection was based, not only on the single painting inspired by the fair, but in other paintings submitted with the fair scene.

HIGH SCHOLARSHIP

David, who maintains a high scholastic average, declared that winning the scholarship is "wonderful encouragement." He spends part of practically every day, weather permitting, scouring Atlanta and the surrounding area for likely subjects for his paintings. He's almost never without his sketch book since he frequently spots a promising scene en route to school, errands or social affairs.

His talent is not limited to paint and brush, however. He is also an accomplished sculptor.

David's art teacher at Southwest, Thomson Salter, has had a big influence on the youth. Mr. Salter declares David "shows tremendous promise" as an artist.

"There is no limit to the heights he can reach," the teacher praised. "And with such programs as this scholarship available, the art world will benefit greatly from the talent's of today's young people?"

CHILDHOOD CAPERS—The playground at North Clayton High School was invaded by a new species of youngsters when members of the senior class reverted to the days of their childhood during annual Kids' Day festivities. Above, Duwayne Longino exhibits childhood chivalry as he provides the power for Brenda Phillips' see-saw ride. Below, Frank Howland peeks from behind a pillar, before creeping up on an unsuspecting senior in a fun-filled game of hide-and-seek. Or is it cowboys and Indians?

Judy Parker, Kerry Peeples Win Awards

KINGSLAND — Judy Parker and Kerry Peeples were presented trophies as "Most Valuable Player" at the first annual basketball awards banquet, held at the Camden Legion Home in Kingsland. The affair was sponsored by businessmen of Camden County, and plans are underway to make the banquet an annual occasion.

New Snack Idea Is Teen-Tempting

For a teen-tempting snack, grate two cups of Cheddar cheese, dice four slices of uncooked bacon and chip four green onions, tops and all. Mix together thoroughly with one cup of well-drained crushed pineapple.

Arrange a thick layer over hamburger buns that have been cut in half, but not toasted. Broil until lightly browned and bubbly. (Enough for six buns, cut in half.)

Market Revived By Electronics

NEW YORK (AP)—Wide gains by electronics and selected issues combined with solid gains by blue chips to give the stock market a snappy recovery.

An estimated $1,700,000,000 was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange based on the rise in the Associated Press average. Gains by key stocks represented in the popular averages went from fractions to about 2 points.

The trend was irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 1,690,000 shares compared with 1,470,000 Friday. Active gainers included Learn International Resistance and Dynamics Corp. of America. Among losers were Arkansas Fuel Oil, Creole Petroleum and General Development.

Corporate bonds were lower on expanded volume. U.S. government bonds firmed in light dealings.

Atlanta Produce

Trading and receipts were light on the Atlanta produce market Friday morning, according to the A.M.S. Florida tomatoes continued firm due to light supplies. 40-pound crates moved good at 10.00-12.00. The best Florida corn was firm with crates of dozen yellow 3.00-3.50; a few white, 3.75-4.00. Other Florida vegetables were about unchanged. Bushel baskets of cucumbers, 5.00-7.00; blackeyed peas, 4.25-4.50 per bushel; snap beans, 4.25-4.75 with poles, 6.00-6.50 per bushel basket.

Florida celery steady at 2.00-2.25 per 16-inch crate of pascal. Most Florida fruit was steady with half box cartons of oranges in all sizes, 2.50-2.75. Georgia cabbage supplies were liberal. 50 pound sacks sold mostly 90-1.00. Supplies of Georgia greens continued plentiful. Turnip salad moved at 75-1.00 per bushel; bunched turnips per dozen, 1.50-2.00; collards, 1.75-2.00. A few collard sprouts in bushel baskets, 1.25.

Georgia green peas were steady at 3.50-3.75 per bushel. Georgia tomato plants were plentiful and moved slow at 3.00-4.00 per crate of 1,000 plants. Cabbage plants were also liberal and sold slow, 75-1.00 per crate of 1,000 plants. Georgia green onions per dozen 70-90 cents. Texas dry onions were slightly weaker. Yellow mediums, 4.25-5.00 per 50-pound bag. Most other fruits and vegetables were unchanged and in light demand.

Merger Makes Bank 3rd Largest in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Morgan, Guaranty Trust Co. of New York has now been formed by the merger of J. P. Morgan & Co. and Guaranty Trust Co., Henry C. Alexander, board chairman of the new institution, announced Friday.

The bank, third largest in the city and fourth in the nation, came into being after the filing of a certificate of approval by G. Russell Clark, New York state banking commissioner.

A spokesman said the certificate was filed at 2:15 p.m. It followed earlier certifications of the merger by the Federal Reserve Board in Washington and the New York State Banking Board in New York.

Demand for canner and cutter cows, and most slaughter and stocker steers and heifers continued good throughout the week. Prices and activity on other classes, especially stocker and feeder calves and slaughter calves very uneven, general trend lower. Compared late last week: Slaughter and stocker steers, heifers and stocker and replacement cows steady. Top utility beef cows weak to 50c lower but canner and cutter grades and most heavy lean utility cows fully steady. Bulls steady to fully 50c lower, most decline on utility and commercial. Slaughter and stocker calves fully 50c to mostly $1.00 lower. Vealers weak to $1.00 lower except one mid-week sale strong to higher. In representative sales: Small supply good to low-choice 600-1,050 lb. slaughter steers $26.00-29.10, standard $23.00-26.60. Few mostly good 550-750 lb. heifers $27.00-28.70; standard $23.00-26.00. Few low-good but low-yielding near 600-lb. yearlings down to $24.75-25.50. Utility steers and heifers $21.00-24.00; canner and cutter $17.00-21.50. Utility cows $20.75-22.00, standard $22.80. Canner and cutter $16.00-21.20, bulk $16.50-21.00. Utility and commercial bulls $20.50-23.30. Canner and cutter $16.00-23.25, very few over $22.00. Good and choice 250-525 lb. slaughter calves and few heavy vealers $28.00-34.00, few $35.00-37.75. Standard 300-500 lb. slaughter calves $25.00-29.00; cull and utility $18.00-27.00. Good and choice with odd head prime vealers $32.00-38.25, bulk $32.00-37.00. Utility and standard vealers $23.00-33.00. Good 525-750 lb. stocker and feeder steers and yearlings found good outlet at $27.00-32.50, mostly $28.00-30.00. Medium 550-800 lb. feeders $24.50-27.50; common $21.00-25.00. Good 450-60 lb. heifers $25.00-27.00; common $20.50-23.50. Good 250-500 lb. stocker and feeder steer calves $31.50-38.00, lighter weights to $40.50. Medium to good 250-450 lb. heifer calves $27.00-33.50. Common and medium 200-500 lb. calves $21.00-33.00; inferior $18.00-23.00. Common and medium stocker cows $18.00-23.00, mostly $18.50-22.50.

Hard pounding, gentlemen, but we will see who can pound the longest.
—Wellington at Waterloo.

Daily Guide—Who pounded the hardest is likely to be the victor now as some of the critical moments are on the wane. Don't grow careless, however, for the way is not all smoothed out by any means.

Happy Birthday, Taurus! Recent years may not have been comfortable, so changes had to be made or may still be on the agenda. The pattern of your life may of necessity have had to be changed, but do know it was for the better if you improved and expanded instead of rebelled.

You have a chance now to make some very sound plan to express extraordinary talents and make solid professional contacts.

Travel and social life add to this slow growth.

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"Millions of dollars are expended annually on the building of great cathedrals and large and small churches, the most of which are poorly attended except in times of national peril or distress."—Religious column quote.

In great oppression or in grief . . . Some pray who have no fixed belief . . . But each, in his peculiar way . . . Will find a time and place to pray . . . And each has his conception of . . . Some God of mercy and of love . . . Or one of vengeance who will send . . . Them where their troubles never end.

In time of struggle and unrest . . . The savage beats upon his breast . . . And turns his face towards the sun . . . Which is his high and holy one . . . And possibly, some Eskimo . . . Has worshiped at a shrine of snow . . . Or sought for solace and advice . . . Before a figure carved in ice.

But all men are so much alike . . . Some great calamity must strike . . . Them down before they realize . . . That men are none too strong or wise . . . Within themselves, and when they do . . . They start to yell for someone who . . . Will help them out, in their distress . . . And that is natural, I guess.

And though the congregation sings . . . And though the tall church steeple rings . . . With music from its lofty chimes . . . The Lord gets vexed with us, at times.

Emory Alumni Day Slated

A full weekend for students and alumni of Emory University is planned for May 1 and 2 with the double celebration of Dooley's Frolics and Alumni Day.

Fraternity house lawn decorations will be judged at 3 p.m. Friday, May 1. The Alumni Council will meet at 5 p.m. and fraternity display winners will be announced at the Friday night dance in the university gymnasium.

Alumni Day will be Saturday, including a noon barbecue, sports carnival, campus tours, class reunions, open house at the home of President and Mrs. S. Walter Martin, a jazz concert, dance and the crowning of "Miss Emory University."

The frolics is the social highlight of the year at Emory. "Dooley," the traditional skeleton Emory symbol, will rule the campus, following his "resurrection" at 7 p.m. Tuesday on the athletic field.
